Hi, this is Lila. First off, please do not send hate to anyone listed in this document. This is something that everyone puts at the beginning of their hate-filled documents, because it's okay for us to send hate to each other, but not okay for you to. I do not always think that the people who write these documents mean that, though. However, I mean it when I say that I don't want anyone I've written about to be hurt in any way. A part of me still cares very deeply for these people, even after they have brought me so much pain. There is a difference between a bad person and a good person who sometimes does bad things. I want to make it very clear that this document is not some sort of revenge power fantasy or anything like that. The purpose of this document is to bring events to light and hopefully avoid anything like this happening in the future. Because a lot has happened and while the hurt from it cannot be undone, maybe it can be prevented moving forward. This is not something I ever wanted to make public, however, I have been forced into that position. With that being said, here's how I have laid out the information in this document. I have done my best to state dates of important events since parts of the document aren't in chronological order. I also added some footnotes, which are indicated by small numbers next to a text. These aren't required to understand the main "meat and potatoes" of the situation, they just provide some further explanation.

• • •

I am going to tell this story in the only way I know how. Like I am a writer bringing a page to life using nothing but letters.

I've always loved books. For years, I have tried to read every book I could get my hands on—mostly fiction, fantasy novels that take me to faraway places. My favorites have to be Throne of Glass by Sarah J Maas, since that was one of the first books I ever read; Six of Crows by Leigh Bardugo is absolutely flawless in every single way; and right now I am in the middle of reading Renegade by Marissa Meyers.

I loved the way that letters could be strung together to form entire words, which could be used to make sentences into paragraphs into pages which became an entire story. There was a type of magic in the way that so many ideas could be shared, worlds explored, just from some simple shapes and lines.

I'm going to try to string together the right letters — the right words — to tell you my story. [1]

• • •

It started with me. Delilah Died; at the time it was Delilah Dagger. But the name was quickly changed. Delilah Dagger was someone strong and powerful. Delilah Dagger could fight and keep fighting. Delilah Dagger could win. But I was not a winner. I was just Delilah. Delilah Died. The name was changed because this was a point in my life where I did not think I could win. Not just in Minecraft pvp. But mostly in my battle against BPD. I had been diagnosed with bipolar disorder that same year, and it had come with a whole string of different symptoms from depression to suicide. Or at least an attempt [2]. The first of many.

[1] Now do you understand why this document is 40 pages long?

Yes, Delilah Died.

That was the right name for someone who had tried to take their own life. A reminder that every day was one I might have never had if things had gone differently. And it was here that I was determined to change my life. I did not — could not — let myself fall back into those thoughts of death. Delilah Died was a name that would taunt death. A name that said “you can’t kill me, bitch”. But I was alone. I had almost no friends. And I wanted that to change. So I filled out applications for any Twitter SMP I could possibly find. And one of them replied. A server called the Geo SMP, an earth server with over 70 people. It was only a week after I joined before things went south. The drama didn’t involve me, but it did make me reconsider ever wanting to join the SMP space.[3] For years I had said I would never join an SMP, yet I had given it one chance and it was full of drama. Exactly like I thought. I was going to be done with SMPs before I ever really started. But that night I received another invite from another Earth server: the Earthbound SMP.

Part of me wanted to delete Twitter and ignore them. But on a whim, I decided to join, intending to log on only once or twice. On June 26th, I logged onto the Earthbound SMP. And that’s when I met someone who would change my life.[4]

Don Turnt.

From the very first time I met him, he resonated so much joy that he immediately became my friend. Within two months, he became one of my closest friends in the world. We would message each other constantly, fall asleep in calls together, fight Minecraft wars side by side. And on my birthday, he gave me a gift. Two gifts, actually. The first was a spot on a server called Money SMP. The second was that he got me in a VC with PrinceZam. I had watched PrinceZam for a while, and he was a huge inspiration for me. Don had first realized I watch PrinceZam because I used so many of his little sayings like “awesome mode” and things like that. But when Don added him to the call, PrinceZam didn’t pick up. So Don got BaconWaffles, SpokeIsHere, PlanetLord, and LeoWook. They spammed PrinceZam saying things like “we found your biggest fan” or “Delilah has a crush on you”. This was honestly super humiliating, and entirely untrue. And while I was happy for the opportunity to meet someone who I looked up to as a creator, I didn’t want it to be under these circumstances. But it didn’t take long before eventually PrinceZam arrived in call.

Never meet your heroes.

That was the first thing I thought after PrinceZam proceeded to follow me on Twitter, and then harass me, responding to my tweeting with things like “kill yourself” or “i hate you” or “shut up”.

---

[2] This occurred in January of 2022

[3] To satisfy your curiosity, the situation involved someone cheating on the server, however the onwer didn’t know how to respond to this. That made other people on the server really mad, which lead to more cheating, more complains, and a of Tweets about the entire situation.

[4] Not for the better

This behavior continued the first time I joined a VC with him on stream. My first interactions with him were nothing but a hoard of harassment and hate. To the point where I had someone try to dox me "on PrinceZam's behalf".[5] However, at this time PrinceZam wasn't my primary concern. Because a new person had entered my life: Sols.

One of Don's birthday gifts had been an invitation to Money SMP. And the owner of that server was named Sols. And immediately he took an interest in me.

For years I believed I was asexual. However, while I also claimed to be aromantic, I had never really had a reason to. As anyone who is aroace can tell you, there is always that question of if you are really aroace, or if I just hadn't found the right person yet.

So when Sols asked me out, I told him that we could try. I didn't want our relationship to be public or even shared with anyone. I didn't even want us to be labeled as "dating". The only people I agreed to be informed about the nature of our relationship were Don and BitOtter. BitOtter had quickly become one of my best friends, second only to Don Turnt. However, despite my wishes, multiple people were told about my and Sols' relationship. This included people I had never met, like Clownpierce and Rosejewel, among others. And Sols was the one who had shared it with them. However, this wasn't the worst thing Sols did.

Over the next month, Don, Otter, Sols, and I became a little group. And one thing that Sols would "joke" about was sending BitOtter unsolicited pictures of his penis. He would mostly say this playfully, but this threat was what got me to face reveal to him, among other things. We had a safe word for whenever things got uncomfortable, which I ended up using.[6] I told him that I was genuinely uncomfortable by his "jokes"/ threats about sending Otter dick pics. His response was that he was uncomfortable with my friendship with Don Turnt. Now while I did consider Don to be my best friend, it was purely platonic. But Sols said that there were things about Don I didn't know about.

That's when he revealed to me that Don Turnt was going to jail.

---

[5] I got a message in August of 2022 on Discord saying that someone was going to get my address and swat me. Top 10 scariest moments of my life. I ended up getting a VPN and putting myself somewhere in America the next time I went live. Midway through that stream, it crashed. I didn't know why but when I got on Discord, that same person said that they were the reason my stream had crashed and sent me the exact location I had set my VPN to. Thank you, Nord VPN. No, thank you, random Zam viewer.

[6] Unfortunately, I don't have any evidence of this since it always occurred in vc.

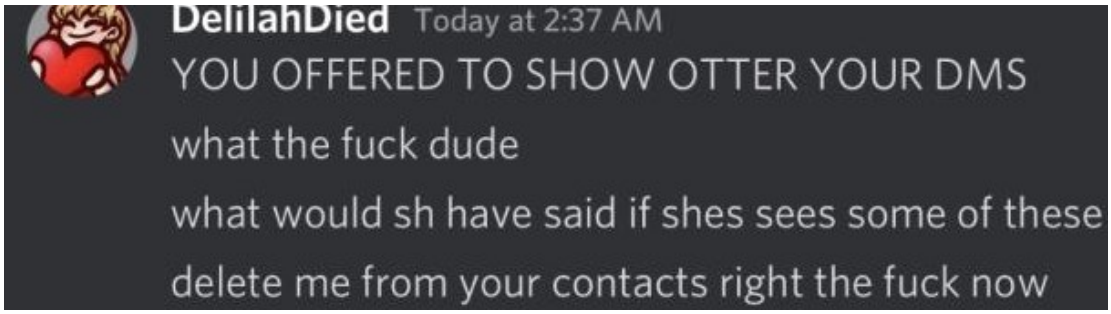
Genuinely, I didn't believe him. I thought that this was a lie he had made up to excuse his actions.[7] I messaged Don immediately. And Don admitted to everything. He said that he had sexually assaulted his ex-girlfriend.[8] I honestly didn't know how to feel. On one hand, Don was such a light in my life — the first friend I had made in years. He radiated positivity and humor. But on the other hand, he was a rapist. He would be going to jail within the month. The next month felt like a blur. I was so conflicted over how I felt or what to do. It's not every day you find out your best friend is a sex offender.

The night before Don's court hearing he went through everything with me. He told me that if he didn't message me by noon, then he was found guilty. And that is what happened. I remember spending the entire day locked in my room, staring at Discord and sobbing. I remember thinking that I would never be as sad as I was at that moment.

Delilah from September of 2022 didn't know about the year ahead of her.

• • •

After Don left, I went on a break, mostly to try to figure out my feelings regarding the situation. I wasn't sure how to feel or who to trust. One person I certainly shouldn't have trusted was Sols. Because during this time he and BitOtter were having a conversation. I forget the exact details as this happened in October of last year. But the conversation resulted in Sols offering to share discord dms between him and me with BitOtter. Now having your "significant other" [9] offer up his dms to another woman, that on its own is super frustrating. However, on top of that, our most recent dms were discussing the Don situation. I hadn't yet figured out my own feelings regarding this. But I definitely wasn't ready for more people to be let in on the secret yet. When BitOtter told me about Sols offering his dms with me, I freaked out. The idea of someone else being forced into the same predicament I was in, was really stressful. Overall, I had had enough of this Sols person. I sent him this message:



(a message that he likes to share with almost everyone on his friend list). In anger, I deleted every single dm I had ever sent him. This took hours, but I couldn't stand the idea of Sols sharing any more things about me. He had a habit of giving out screenshots or private dms like they were candy. But what was worse was when he would message someone about me and then show me those dms, like he wanted some sort of prize. An example of this was when Sols

[7] By "his actions" I mean that I thought he was using Don allegedly going to jail as a way to change the subject from him threatening to send pornographic images to my friend
[8] I was given a lot more details about the situation, I'm just not comfortable going into those details [9] Not exactly an accurate description of what Sols was, but its the closest I could come up with messaged RoseJewel, who at the time didn't even know who I was. This was his message to her:

Now put yourself in Rose's position. She had no clue who Sols was talking about. She had no clue what tournament he was talking about. So why did he message her at all? Because he wanted to screenshot it and share it with me. He wanted to show me and say "look how much I care about you". Overall he very freely sends around private dms from me to other, and from others to me. And I knew this. So I deleted every single dm I ever sent him.

• • •

In tenth grade, I read the novel Thirteen Reasons Why by Jay Asher. And it left a strong impression on me. Not for the reasons you might think though. The novel is about a high school girl who is driven to suicide. It's the idea that a bunch of little things can pile and pile and pile up until eventually all of these things that were little and now very very big. But this book did not leave the impact on me it was supposed to. It was supposed to leave readers with the message that we should all be nicer to each other because you never know how those little things can affect people. But the message completely fell apart because of three factors. first, because her suicide is used as a revenge fantasy against the people who wronged her. Second, because she doesn't take any initiative to fix anything in her life. And third, because in the end she gets raped and that's her final straw. Rape is not a "little thing piling up". So when I was contemplating my own suicide, I compared myself to the main character, Hannah a lot. I wanted to make sure I wasn't making the same mistakes that she did. I didn't want to end my life as a part of an elaborate revenge plot or blame others for my problems while making no attempt to change anything that was happening to me. But I did count my reasons, Don was reason number 1. My first of 13. Sols was 2.

My third reason started at VidCon 2022.

That's where I met Kaboodle for the first time. And honestly, my first impressions were pretty good. But that quickly changed once we got back from that trip. She would log onto Earthbound a lot and vibe with me, and during one of these calls, she mentioned a server called Lifesteal. Specifically, her desire to "collect" each member with the desire to get in.[10] This made me feel weird but I didn't think too much of it. Until a month later when she asked me why I never logged onto Lifesteal or streamed on it; she thought I was on Lifesteal.[11] I explained that I wasn't on the server. The result was immediate. She stopped messaging me as much. The only times she did talk to me were due to my connections, specifically my connection with Lifesteal members. An example of this was when she asked me to join her stream only so I could add baconwaffles to a group chat with her. I was invited to Kaboodle SMP so that I could get Zam on the server. Once Zam was on the server, she would call him to discuss his character every single day, while ideas I had went ignored.[12] She teamed up with me for mc wipeout so she could get PrinceZam on her team. And when I said Zam didn't want to do it and added BitOtter as our teammate instead, she promptly left the competition.[13] I was asked to be a part of her shared health video but only if I asked PrinceZam and Reddoons to join. Then I was almost completely cut from the video. For additional context: I was there for the entire 3 hours of this recording session while Ashswag and Clownpierce only showed up within the last 20 minutes. However, both of them are in the thumbnail and are in the video, while my footage wasn't used once, and I have an entire 2 speaking lines in the entire video. Now at the end of the day, I don't really care about being or not being in a Kaboodle video. What I do care about is the way that this affected my and Kaboodle's relationship moving forward.

Many times I would realize that I was being treated significantly worse than Kaboodle would treat Lifesteal members. For example, after that recording with Clownpierce, Ashswag, Reddoons, PrinceZam, and me, the Lifesteal members started talking about a meeting. This went on for about 30 mins before Ashswag had to go. Right before Ashswag left, he asked me about an event on the Genesis that I was hosting: "Delilah, is Jackbox still on for this weekend?" To which I responded, "Yup, 2 pm est". And then he left. Literally, a conversation that lasted a couple of seconds. However, this got Kaboodle to send the following message:

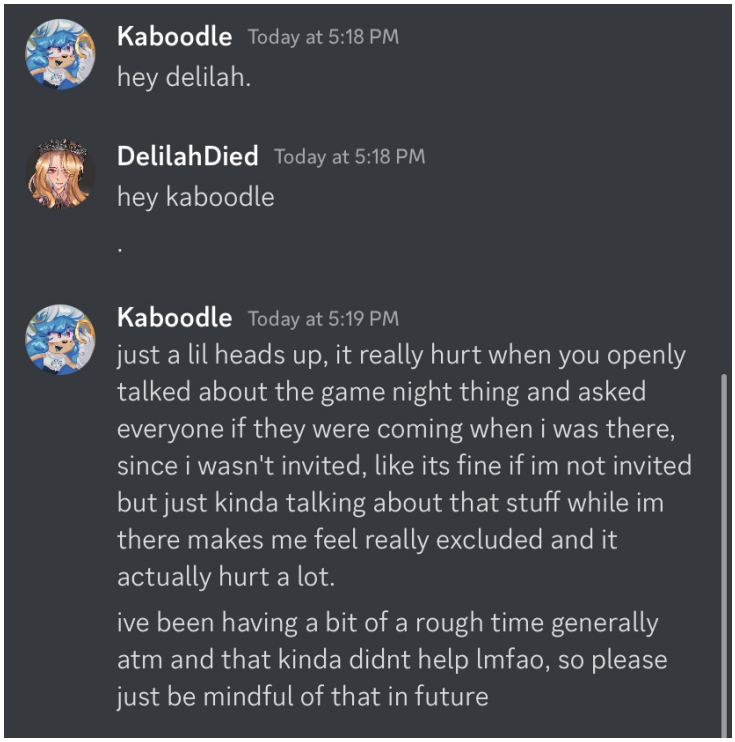
---

[10] This was meant as "collecting their friendship". I'm almost positive I have of it somewhere, but it would take a long long time to find.

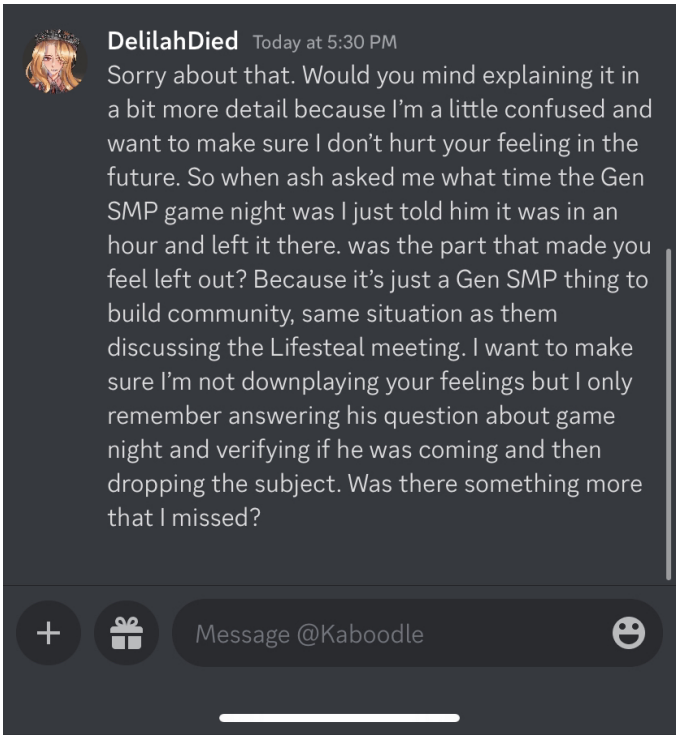
[11] This was all said in a vc. I possibly have video evidence of all of this, but I have enough evidence later that I don't need to go hurting for footage for last year

[12] I tried looking for the dm that Kaboodle sent saying how she hadn't read the messages I sent her regarding ideas I had for the sever, but this all happened back in February

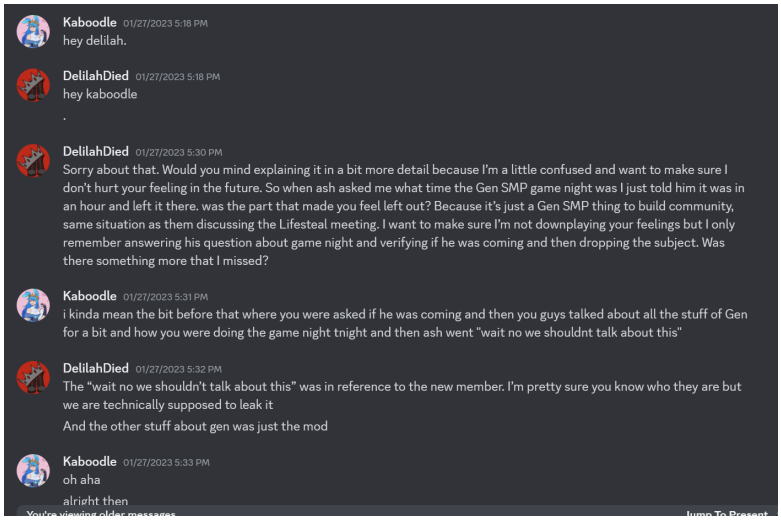
[13] "Slept through" it only to conveniently wake up after we had found a replacement and were half-way through the first map



Once again, clown was also in this call and he is not a part of the Genesis SMP or the event I was hosting. It's not that she was excluded and everyone else in that call was invited. Also, saying that I asked "everyone if they were coming" is not true in the slightest. I double checked with Ashswag. Then he left. I explained this all to her in the following dm:

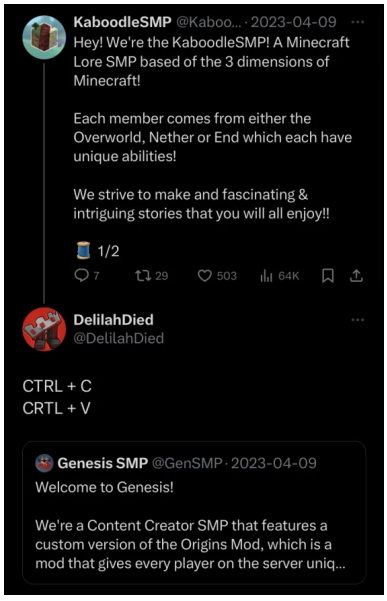


This was followed up by kaboodle with some "o ok dw dw. Its fine" and then she deleted her original message.

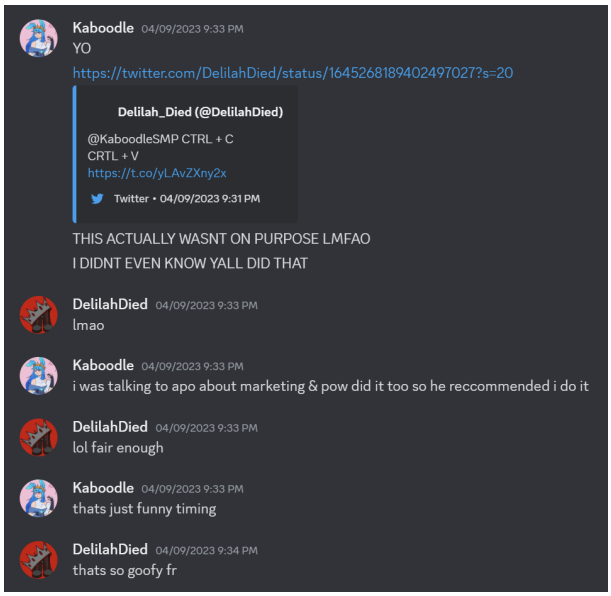


That is just one of the many examples of why I started to not be super eager about participating in events, VCs, or SMPS with Kaboodle.

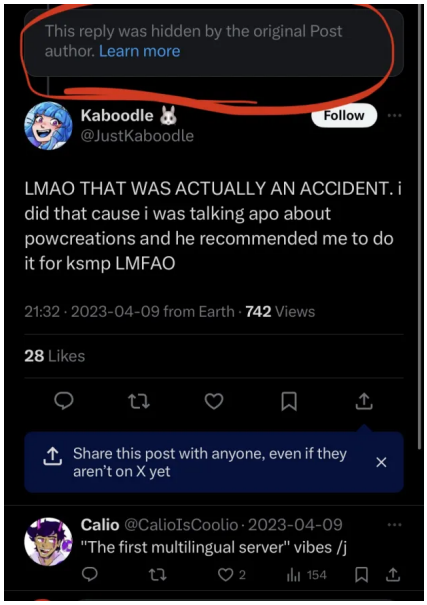
At this point, I decided to keep some distance from her. I didn't want to be used just as a means to further Kaboodle's connections or let her treat me poorly. And overall, these clout-chasing tendencies were childish and annoying. Even when some of her videos were released (see her block wars video) she would make a point to add clownpierce in the first 5 seconds even when he wasn't in the video. Overall, I just found this funny. But with that being said, I didn't hate Kaboodle. All of the things that she did to me were petty and I hoped she would grow out of with time. And anything I expressed publicly about Kaboodle was genuinely done in good humor. However, she didn't always take it light-heartedly. An example of this was when Genesis SMP and Kaboodle SMP season 2 were announced on the same day. Kaboodle SMP made a tweet only a couple of hours after Genesis made their tweet, and the Kaboodle SMP tweet was worded very similarly. Both servers have very similar concepts as well. So I made a lighthearted tweet:



Now, this was posted entirely lightheartedly (as I've emphasized time and time again). I was actively on the Kbaoodle SMP, so it made no sense for me to spread hate about that server. [14] But even though this should have been taken jokingly, kaboodle messaged me about my tweet



As you can tell, it was very very lighthearted. And she even reached out to clarify, where I once again promised that everything was done in good humor. Kaboodle had 0 reason to believe that I tweeted that will ill intent. Yet, (and this is only what I've been told so take it with a grain of salt) she felt the need to talk about it in a VC and told the people in that call to help her ratio me.[15] On top of that, she hid my reply on the tweet: [16]



[14] Even though I hadn't been announced yet, I was invited to the server back in November of 2022
[15] Which fyi, didn't work
[16] The reply underneath her tweet is so funny

Clownpierce and Ashswag both talked to me about this event being something that still lives rent free in Kaboodle's head. I haven't replied to a Kaboodle tweet since then. It's not just not being able to take a joke, but then trying to go after me for it. Even after she messaged me confirming the light-hearted nature of this message. Overall this was just another slap in the face. One of the many.

After this, I started to get very fed up with her. Everything she did was petty and childish. However, I was never publically vocally against Kaboodle. I wasn't even "against" her at all. My time with her wasn't enjoyable. But I didn't hate her or anything like that. However, there would soon be a misconception that I did.

I am a very loud person. I speak my mind. I am opinionated and am no stranger to making those opinions known. People that everyone likes aren't typically loud and opinionated. This is this lyric that I think sums that up really well:

"Stay out of politics, stay on the fence
Stay out of all of it to keep half your fans" - AJR 3 0'Clock Things

And of course, my vocalness became a problem. Particularly when we would watch Kaboodle videos in Genesis VCs. Because I was vocal about the parts of her video that I thought were funny. That might include a comment like "why is Clown in this video" (which was in response to her blockwars video where Clownpierce was featured in the first 5 seconds despite not even being in the event). But like I said, none of these comments were hateful or hurtful. It was just silly little Kaboodle, she thinks she needs clown to get views instead of relying on her effective storytelling, her comedy, or her editing (all of which are strong points for her).

Everything I said while watching her videos was things that I brought up directly to Kaboodle herself. I told her point blank that she would benefit from doing more videos without a big creator. She didn't need to just be someone's sidekick who only used big creators for her views. Because if people are only watching for Clownpierce, then they will never subscribe for you.

However, this started to circulate rumors and I straight-up hated Kaboodle (once again, completely untrue, just want to make sure that is 100% clear btw). But instead of contacting me and discussing these rumors with me, she has held onto the belief that I hated her for the past 8 months. I've explained every single issue I had with her at this point. And I think I've made it abundantly clear that I had no feelings of hatred for Kaboodle. Only minor annoyances that made me distance myself from her on both a personal and professional level.[17] She's only like 16 so I don't think that any of this makes her a bad person, I think that she received a lot of [17] I wasn't going to discuss this, because it's pretty personal to someone that I once considered a friend. But due to recent events, I'll leave this is the footnotes. Kaboodle was very jealous of me because she thought Woogie and I were dating, or at least that Woogie liked me. This stemmed from time on the Clownpierce SMP, where once I logged on, and was greeted by Woogie. He asked to add me into a call and I said sure. Immediately after I said "sure" I got a message from Kaboodle saying "YOU ARE RUINING OUR DATE". Now don't worry, they aren't actually dating. I asked Woogie after about this, and he said that the reason he had added me to the call was because he felt weird around Kaboodle and didn't want to give her the wrong idea. Despite that Kaboodle became super possessive over Woogie, even worried that Woogie liked me (image at the bottom of the document). I think that this situation tied into Kaboodle's dislike of me.

fame very young, and that brought her to value a person's numbers over their character. I don't think she is a bad person, just sometimes makes bad decisions. But that doesn't mean that I hated her.

She doesn't upload frequently enough for me to make fun of her that much.

And I upload way too consistently to think about other people that much.

Now this is one thing I really want anyone reading this to remember: you can't control your feelings, but you can control how your feelings affect your actions. I wish Kaboodle had thought about this before she went around spreading the rumor that I was shit-talking her and hating on her behind her back. This was shared with people like Ashswag, Clownpierce, Woogie, Ferremc. Ferre even went as far as to unfriend me on Discord and Twitter because of these allegations. He didn't bother to talk to me about any of this, he just removed me as a friend. And it's not like Ferre and I are strangers; we spent weeks together on the lifeline SMP as literally soulmates/partners/teammates as part of that server's plugin. So to be completely removed as a friend due to rumors Kaboodle was spreading about me, was really frustrating. Especially because she didn't talk to me about it first.

And there were more rumors that were gonna start spreading particularly after PrinceZam and I began our relationship.

Discussing the part of this that relates to Zam it probably the reason most people are reading this, but it's also the hardest to address since I believe both Zam and I want to keep a lot of our relationship private. Because of that, I will do my best to be as thorough in this as possible, while still maintaining my privacy.

Before dating, Zam and I were best friends. People were shipping us before we were even dating. But while dating, PrinceZam and I took a trip to Ohio to meet up with a bunch of content creators. It was here when we told Mark Bormethius about our relationship. We emphasized that this was supposed to be kept absolutely secret. I knew that if this was public, I could be seen as nothing more than an extension of Zam. There are so many female creators like QT Cinderella who people only know as "Ludwig's girlfriend". I also didn't want to benefit from my content career or miss out on Content opportunities from dating Zam. For that reason, I never tried to use our relationship to get into events or servers. I'll address this more later. But overall, our relationship was not something either Zam or I were ready to make public. Yet, a couple of weeks after the Ohio trip ended, Bormethius began telling everyone ont the Genesis SMP about mine and Zam's relationship. To this day I don't know why he did this. This is someone I once considered a brother. But since then has proven to betray and deceive everyone who thought they were close to him. But not only did he tell people who I was friendly with, like vPuto and Derapchu. But he also told Kaboodle. I trusted Mark with knowing about my feelings towards Kaboodle. He knew full well that this was someone I was uncomfortable with. So it was an extra type of sting when I found out that Mark had told her. Kaboodle was actually the person who told me Mark was going around telling people. She casually dropped that she knew about Zam and I dating in a private VC. I denied this. I asked her why she thought this and she told me that someone had told her. But when I asked who she refused to tell me. I thought this was super hypocritical to protect the identity of someone who was leaking my private information. Eventually, I explained to her that whoever was spreading this rumor about Zam and mine's relationship was affecting my career for all the reasons I previously stated. I explained that if someone was leaking that Zam and I were dating it could take away opportunities from me, and it could make me an extension of Zam.[18] Eventually, I got Kaboodle to confess that it was Mark who had told her about Zam and I. Immediately I messaged Mark asking him why he would leak my personal information like that. Why he would betray my trust when to my knowledge I had done nothing against him.

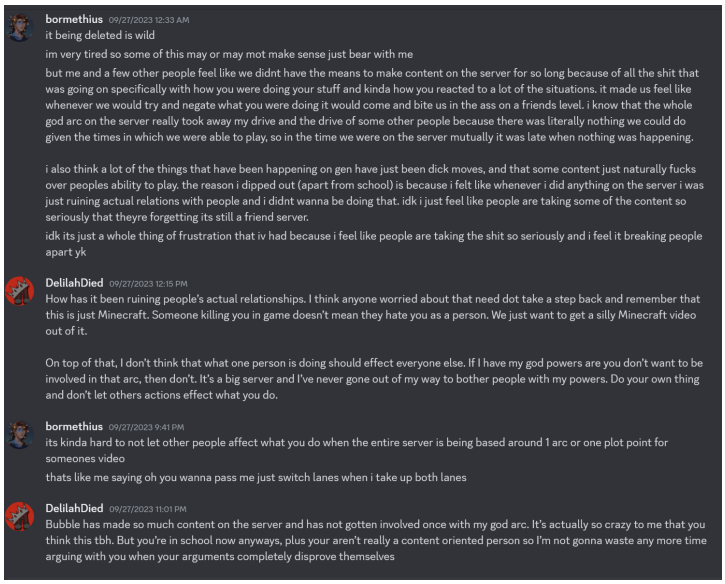
As stated in this message, Mark was messaging Zam and sending a lot of hate towards me. This was due to something that occurred on the Genesis SMP. I will be making an entire video on this part.[19] Because I became invincible (pretend I said that in my youtuber voice please). I did this through a glitch that involved the orb of origin. I did not obtain this orb through cheating, but instead I got it through a player named Demixel. His origin allowed him to gain these orbs legitimately, and I traded him for it. Using this orb I managed to become invincible. However, a lot of people on the server really didn't like this. Mark was particularly vocal about his dislike. This is the full message string.



First off, any content creator will look at Mark's initial message and seen how nonsensical this is. I never used my god powers to needless kill people (I actually hardly killed

[18] I want to clarify that this wasn't me manipulating her in any way, these were genuine concerns. I literally sat in this call contemplating hurting myself because the sting of Mark's betrayal hurt so bad, and the impact it could have could hurt ever more

[19] Probably. I'm not going to lie, part of me is still considering ending my life. I'm seeking help for this, but its really hard not to feel like so much bad has happened that I'd be better off that way anyone during this time for that very reason). And claiming that they “didn’t have the means to make content on the server for so long” because of me being immortal is ridiculous. Any content creator can tell you that what one person is doing doesn’t have to affect the entire server. I never forced my god arc onto anyone on the server. People could either choose to participate or not. And some people did, taking up the role of my adversaries with the goal of removing my god powers. Mark did decide to take up this role, alongside Coinmonke, PrinceZam, and vPluto. One incident that occurred was Mark and Zam investigating my void hole that I used for the glitch. They both ended up falling through the hole and losing all of their things. This made Mark super upset. I wasn’t even online on the server at the time. They went down my water elevator using their tridents and fell through the void. Placing the blame on me is absolutely ridiculous and hilarious for their own mistake. Like I said, I wasn’t even online when they fell through the void. And while losing all of their things may have been frustrating, it is unfair to say that I was at fault. Furthermore, no one tried to do anything to stop my god arc, not once. They could have used entities to crash the server (which would have lost me my god powers if I didn’t disconnect in the void), they could have trapped me, etc. There was one moment where I literally went outside of the world border while everyone was online. If the server had shut down or I had been forced to disconnect, it would have been impossible for me to survive with my invincibility. But no attempt was ever made. Specifically by that group which included vPluto, PrinceZam, Bormethius, and CoinMonke. As I said, zam was specifically on the opposite team to me. But there was one time when he manually shut down the server using the server console. This directly took away my god powers. However, this was very unfair, since Zam, my enemy on the server, had shut down the server manually. Because of this, Zam ended up giving me my god powers back. This is what I believe Mark is referring to when he claims that I “cheated” in a recent tweet:

[20]

Mark also claims that the actions that happened on the server negatively impacted our friendships. Like I said, I never killed anyone in a battle while I had my invincibility. On top of that, Minecraft is a game. It shouldn’t be taken seriously. Especially when making content. If you watch most big SMP content creators (take for example literally anyone from Lifesteal’s videos) you watch people betray and kill each other all of the time. But at the end of the day, it’s just on a silly Minecraft server and it's not personal. The fact that Mark took these things on a personal level speaks to his level of maturity. Plus the fact that he doesn’t really make content. He used to stream on occasion. But at the end of the day, Mark isn’t a content creator. The majority of the [20] I also want to bring up the ethicasy of Mark involving himself in a situation that has nothing to do with him, because I think it’s super immature people on the Genesis SMP aren't. Let's go down the list (sorry if anyone feels called out, I'm not saying not making content is a negitive thing. I'm just been candid about the state of the server and its members):

RoseJewel: quit content and hasn't streamed in 6 months.

WoogieX: in college hasn't uploaded in 3 months

Serapter1: hasn't streamed since august

IttisJc: hasn't upload in over a year and streamed since 2022. Doesn't do content

CoinMonke: don't do content

Pangi: is in collage as also has lifesteal (doesn't play on genesis as result)

Vpluto: streams at least once a month (not great but not bad) but hasn't uploaded (edit: as i'm proff reading this pluto just uploaded his first video. Very proud of him. But also this video took him 4 months to make. This footage is from 5 months ago, but he has been working on it for 4 months. So I'd argue that content is not a priority for him either. Though compared to other people on gen, pluto is kinda up tbh.)

Meta64: hasn't stream in a month (still better than most). And doesn't upload minecraft content (see also his A Tribute to Youtube: https://youtu.be/xsVykWxsPg8?si=YmKNk6UwaKG67Ohp which is a banger)

Derapchu: Only video is a vlog for 2 months ago. (plus hes australian)

DemixelZ: doesn't upload, hasn't streamed since august, is in collage

Bitotter: uploads once a month, streams often. I have no complaints.

Ashswag: hasn't uploaded in 3 months. Logs on Genesis SMP once a month.

Bubblebrooke: hasn't uploaded in 4 months. Hasn't played on Genesis SMP in months.

Bormethius: quit content. Hasn't uploaded, hasn't streamed in months

TheTerrain: hasn't uploaded in 8 months (HOLY SHIT ITS BEEN 8 MOTNHS) or streamed since august.

Overall, the Genesis SMP tried to be a content server. That's what our goal was when we created the Genesis SMP. It was meant to be a space for the people who wanted to make content but didn't have the place to do it. It was meant to inspire a group of friends to grow together as creators. That's the vision that Zam, Bitotter, and I had when the three of us started this. While the server belonged to Zam, it was all three of us who spent hours together planning and building the server. But in the end, this server had not been the place I wanted to help build. I wanted an environment where I could create content harmoniously without damaged friendships, or heated dms. This is what led me to want to join the Lifesteal SMP.

Six months ago, Lifesteal opened applications. And I wanted to prove that I was good enough. Joining Lifesteal became synonymous with being "good enough", at least in my head. So during the application process, I uploaded three videos. [21] I was 1 out of 2 people who uploaded 3 videos during that time, as consistency is one of the most valuable assets in Minecraft creators, yet it's very rare. But yet, I didn't get in.

It sucked. I'm not going to lie, I felt like a failure, like I wasn't good enough to join the exclusive ranks. But over the next few months, I allowed that fear of failure to fuel my content. I worked harder to keep up my consistency, but also improve my quality.

---

[21] one of which was made in only 24 hours. It's not important to the story, I'm just very proud of that

However, let me get one thing crystal clear: getting into Lifesteal was something I wanted, never something I needed. It wasn't "one of my main goals in content" or anything like that. I just saw Likesteal as the most successful server in this space, and I wanted a place where I could make the content I wanted to make without having to worry about people taking things personally, or not understanding content.

Over VidCon (which was a week after the new Lifesteal members were announced), I went through a really rough phase. A lot of people thought that this rough period was due to not getting into Lifesteal. I can assure you, it was not. As I said, the feelings of failure that came with not getting into the server definitely helped my pre-existing spiral into questioning my own self-worth. But it was not the cause. Not even one of the main causes.

The cause of this spiral was due to being diagnosed with Bipolar Disorder earlier that year. My BPD resulted in me failing my first semester of University, depending on my friends for my self-worth, among other things. On top of failing everything else in my life (school, worrying that I was letting down my friends and family), not getting into Lifesteal made me feel like I was a failure in content too. It was mostly due to failing school that had spiraled me into a deep depression.

I don't think a lot of people realize how spiraling works. Something as simple as failing one class can make you think "well now I'm going to fail all of my friends. I'm going to fail at anything I ever try. What's the point of my trying to do anything if I'm going to fail? Why am I even trying to do anything at all" and that can lead you to feel like the only thing you won't fail at is dying.

Going into VidCon, I was already depressed and doing self-harm. And while I really made an effort to not let my depression be evident during this trip, I didn't really get a choice. Anyone dealing with bipolar or depression can tell you that even during moments that should be the happiest of your life, there is this cloud over all of your feelings that makes every spark of joy feel dim. A lot of the people who shared the Airbnb with me complained that I was very reserved, spent a lot of time in my room, and was incredibly tired and slept through some of the best moments of the trip. However, this wasn't something I wanted. Do you think I wanted to spend a thousand dollars on a trip only to sleep through it? Or spend most of it crying in my bedroom? Obviously not. And the fact that people had boiled down me feelings to "Delilah didn't get into Lifesteal so she is sad" is genuinely sickening. Assumptions were made about my situation without anyone actually asking me about how I was feeling. I was never asked once about it.

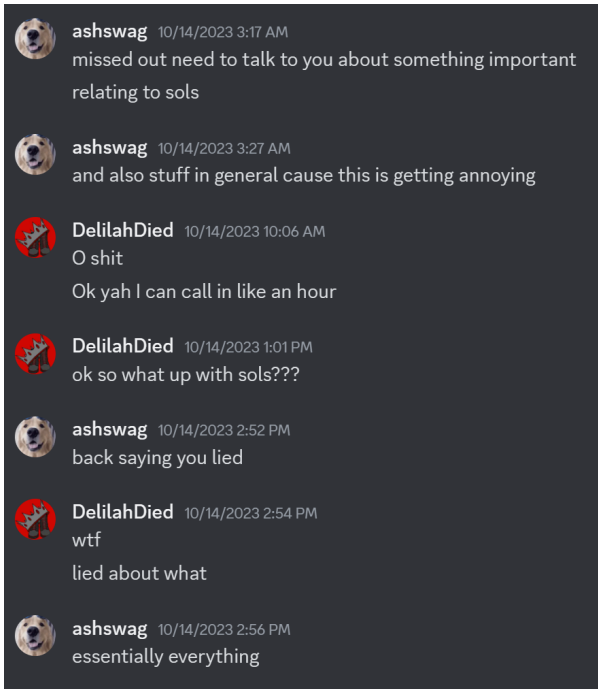
It was during this VidCon trip that Zam and I began dating. Like I said, at this time I really relied on others for my self-worth. I wanted everyone to like me and approve of everything that I did. So when Zam expressed interest in me, I felt like it was a type of validation. However, over the duration of our relationship, I lost a lot of that confidence. Everything I did was somehow wrong. Zam wanted me to change my hair; he didn't like my hair in braids, only liked it in a ponytail. So I started only wearing my hair in ponytails. He didn't like when I wore tight clothing, so I brought a ton of loose clothing. He didn't like it when I dyed my hair red. It was every single thing about me. I felt like he didn't like me, but he wanted to change me into someone he would like.

I've been listening to this song called "If I Killed Someone for You" by Alex Benjamin and there is this one lyric that says:

“You have to understand that the one I killed is me,
Changing what I was for what you wanted me to be,
I followed your directions, did everything you asked
I hope it makes you happy, cause there’s just no turning back.
Would you love me more if I killed someone for you?”

But it was during this time that I started to feel super isolated. But the next month brought me further and further into this isolation. Starting with someone I never thought I would ever have to hear from again: Sols.

Well I didn’t exactly hear from Sols, but instead, I received this message from Ashswag:



Have you ever played the game “telephone”? It’s a game where you start with a phrase and whisper it down a line of people. And as anyone who has played this game can tell you, the message that you get at the end is a far cry from what you started with.

I had told Ashswag about Sols threatening to send BitOtter unsolicited photos. I told him this when I told him about the Don Turnt situation. When Ashswag asked me how I found out about the Don stuff, I explained the situation. A few months later, Kaboodle was invited to Money SMP (a reminder that the server is owned by Sols).[22] Ashswag asked for my permission to tell Kaboodle about Sols being a little weird. I said yes. And now without my permission, Kaboodle went around sharing that story with anyone who would listen, including some of Sols’ closest friends like ToxBerry, FerreMC, Clonwpierce, etc. Keep in mind that there were only a handful of people who knew this story. It wasn’t something I felt the need to go around sharing, especially since I thought Sols had left the content space forever.

Sols and I got into a call and he claimed that I was spreading lies to ruin his reputation. It’s not as though I was spreading the story about the Sols situation with everyone. I had shared it with PrinceZam, Ashswag, and Bitotter. And also Kaboodle through extension. On top of that, the story that Sols heard was very different than the story that I had told to Ashswag. That's because the story had been passed from me to Ashswag to Kaboodle to ToxBerry to Ferre and then to Sols. Sols claimed that he was told I was calling him a "sexual abuser". This was never a term I used to refer to him. While I think that what Sols did was really messed up, I don't think that sexual abuser is an accurate representation of the situation at all.

[22] It’s been 14 pages since I mentioned that, so I thought I’d give a little reminder

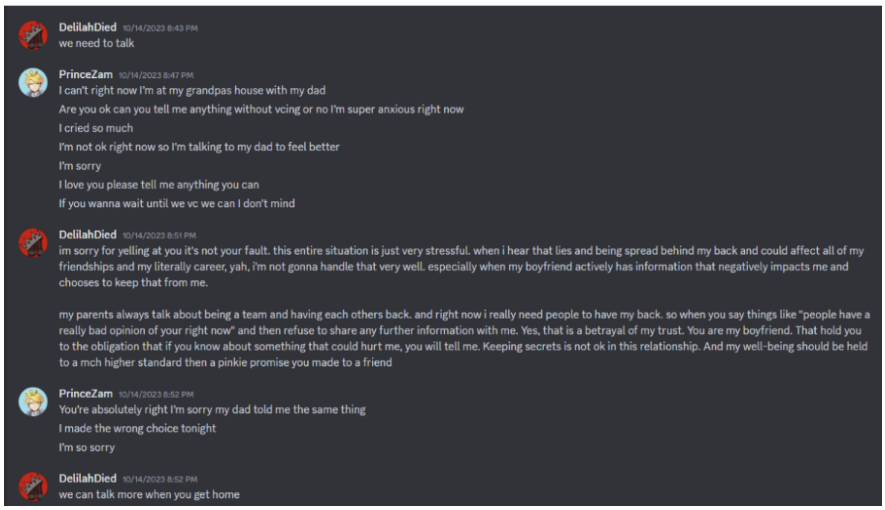
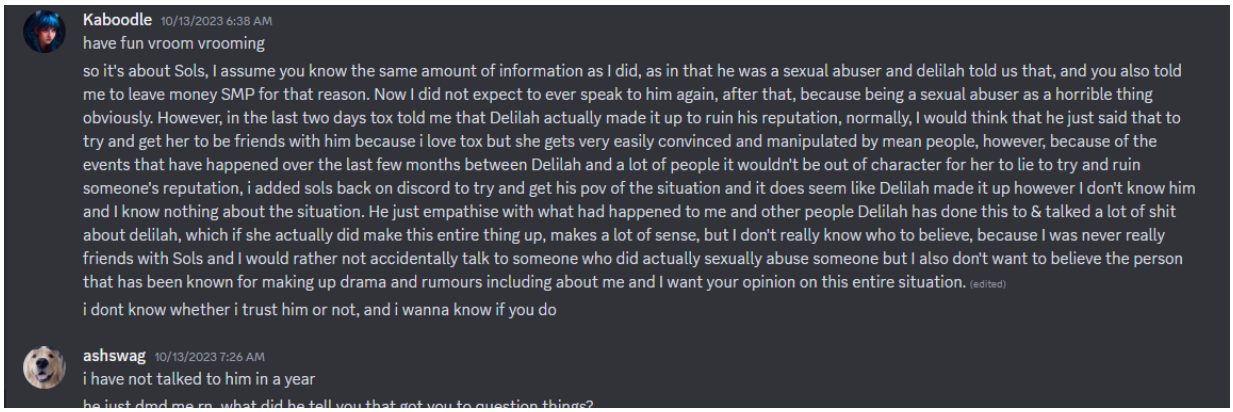
It was during this time that Zam told me that Ashswag had shared a screenshot with him regarding the Sols situation. When I asked Zam to show me this screenshot, he said no. This felt like a huge betrayal since Ashswag had gone out of his way to share a private message with zam. And since Zam and I were dating, it felt like Ash cared about Zam more than Zam cared about me. Especially since the screenshot Ashswag shared with Zam was directly related to me. All of this occurred in a VC with Zam, where I eventually yelled "You are betraying me" before leaving the call. Later that night, Zam and I got in a call where he apologized extensively for hiding things from me.



He talked with his dad who explained that in a relationship you are a team. Your partner should matter more than anything else to you in the world. And anything that would hurt your partner hurts you too. And after Zam's father told him that, he realized he should have been honest with me. That was when he showed me the message that Ashswag had sent him:



This explains a variety of things. Firstly, who started calling Sols a "sexual abuser". Second, that Kaboodle had genuine malice against me. Saying that it "wasn't out of character for her to lie and try and ruin someone's reputation". She has no reason for thinking this. I had never lied to her, nor ruined anyone's reputation. Also in situations like this, I think it's always important to believe victims. That doesn't mean spreading hate. But hearing someone, especially a woman, wouldn't believe me with no evidence to the contrary. Just because she heard a rumor that I didn't like her. Super frustrating. Especially since I had shared the Sols situation with her in confidence. I trusted her. And she abused that trust by spreading and manipulating my story, bad-mouthing me behind my back, etc.[23]

Going back to my and Zam's relationship, I hoped that Zam's lying and hiding things from me would come to an end. However, it kept happening over and over and over again. The first time Zam lied to me was during the very first week of our relationship. I really don't want to go into the nature of this lie for Zam's privacy. But imagine the top 3 most important things in a person's life. Now imagine lying about one of those 3 things to the person whom you claimed you loved.[24] I felt so betrayed by this. I almost cut him out of my life right then and there. But I believe in forgiveness. So I forgave him. And I kept forgiving him. Lie after lie after lie. Sometimes they were lies about important things. Other times he would lie about silly things. There was once when Zam went into a local butcher shop and when he came out he told me that the person working there knew his uncle. I said "Oh, that's cool" and continued the drive home. A few minutes later, Zam admitted that the butcher didn't actually know his uncle, and Zam apologized for lying. And sometimes it was little "white lies" like this. Other times these lies left me scrambling to pick up the pieces and crying on my bed for days without eating. [25] But this went on and on and on.

One thing that really bothered me about our relationship was the power imbalance. Outside of content, we felt pretty even. Maybe even I was doing a little bit better. I have a tight group of in-person friends, I'm attending my first full year of University, everything is really good. Whereas Zam hasn't graduated high school, doesn't have a stable relationship with many irl friends, etc.[26] But overall, when Zam and I were in person, the power in the relationship felt very equal. However, online the relationship was very skewed. Obviously, Zam has more subscribers than me, which already felt like I was less than him in that regard. Plus I was making less money than him. But the biggest issue with this power imbalance came from when I tried to join Lifesteal.

---

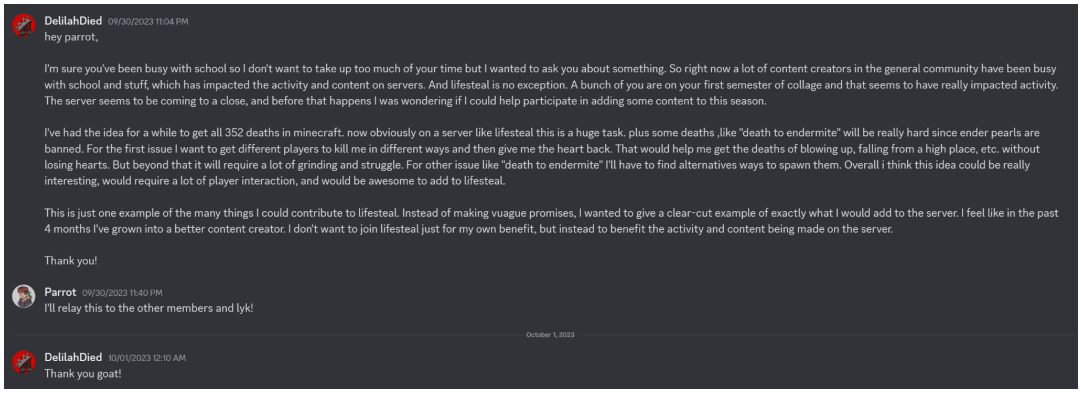
[23] Hopefully this can explain some accusation Zam made in his "statment". Kaboodle time and time again was spreading negativity about me. Twisting my words, lying behind my back, and so much more. Overall, it felt like all of my problems kept stemming back to Kaboodle.

[24] Zam addressed in his statement a little about his religion. I won't talk about it much but just know that he lied to be about his religion and blamed for for being a bad influence on him, even thought he initiated our relationship.

[25] This unfortunately isn't an exaggeration

[26] But he made up for it by being able to cook, while I am an absolute cooking nightmare

On September 30th, I reached out to Parrot with this message:



DelilahDied 09/30/2023 11:04 PM
hey parrot,

I'm sure you've been busy with school so I don't want to take up too much of your time but I wanted to ask you about something. So right now a lot of content creators in the general community have been busy with school and stuff, which has impacted the activity and content on servers. And lifesteal is no exception. A bunch of you are on your first semester of collage and that seems to have really impacted activity. The server seems to be coming to a close, and before that happens I was wondering if I could help participate in adding some content to this season.

I've had the idea for a while to get all 352 deaths in minecraft. now obviously on a server like lifesteal this is a huge task. plus some deaths ,like "death to endermite" will be really hard since ender pearls are banned. For the first issue I want to get different players to kill me in different ways and then give me the heart back. That would help me get the deaths of blowing up, falling from a high place, etc. without losing hearts. But beyond that it will require a lot of grinding and struggle. For other issue like "death to endermite" I'll have to find alternatives ways to spawn them. Overall i think this idea could be really interesting, would require a lot of player interaction, and would be awesome to add to lifesteal.

This is just one example of the many things I could contribute to lifesteal. Instead of making vuague promises, I wanted to give a clear-cut example of exactly what I would add to the server. I feel like in the past 4 months I've grown into a better content creator. I don't want to join lifesteal just for my own benefit, but instead to benefit the activity and content being made on the server.

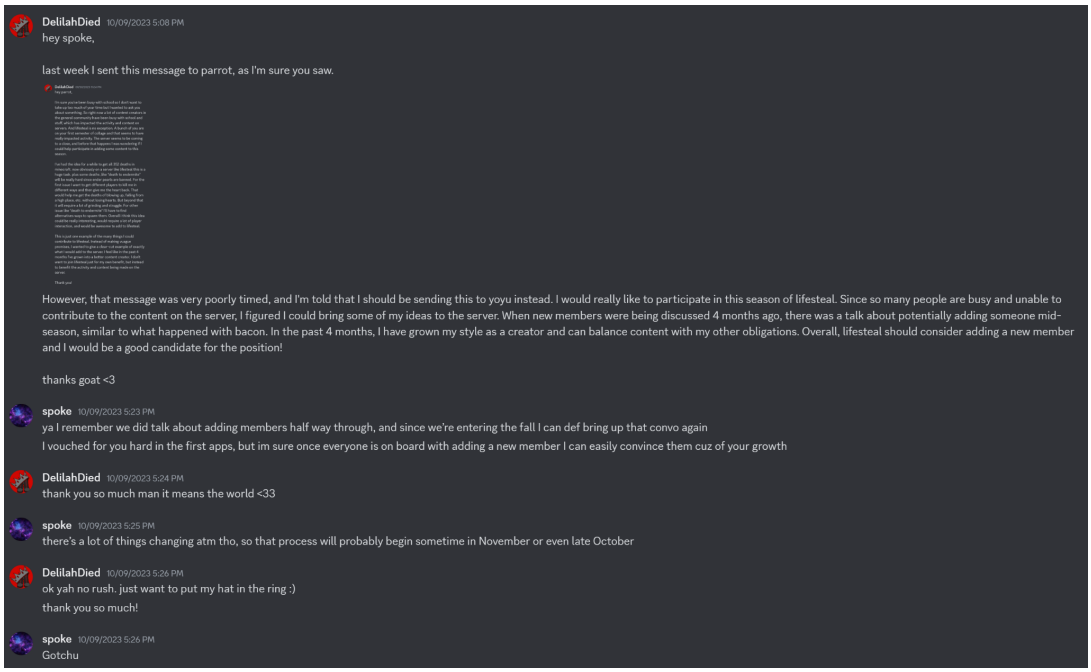
Thank you!

Parrot 09/30/2023 11:40 PM
I'll relay this to the other members and lyk!

October 1, 2023

DelilahDied 10/01/2023 12:10 AM
Thank you goat!

I showed this message to Woogie and Zam for approval before sending it to Parrot. They green-lit the message. This message wasn't sent from a place of entitlement or obsession. I just wanted a community where I wasn't the only person putting in an effort, like on Genesis. And as Parrot said, he did "relay this to the other members" in the form of pinging the entire server and mocking me.[27] But turns out that my timing couldn't have been worse. Because Parrot had stepped down as owner before this.[28] So this message fell on deaf ears. Ownership was transferred to Zam, Spoke, and Ashswag. I asked Zam what I should do, and he recommended I send a follow-up message to Spoke clarifying the situation. So, I did:



DelilahDied 10/09/2023 5:08 PM
hey spoke,

last week I sent this message to parrot, as I'm sure you saw.

However, that message was very poorly timed, and I'm told that I should be sending this to yoyu instead. I would really like to participate in this season of lifesteal. Since so many people are busy and unable to contribute to the content on the server, I figured I could bring some of my ideas to the server. When new members were being discussed 4 months ago, there was a talk about potentially adding someone mid-season, similar to what happened with bacon. In the past 4 months, I have grown my style as a creator and can balance content with my other obligations. Overall, lifesteal should consider adding a new member and I would be a good candidate for the position!

thanks goat <3

spoke 10/09/2023 5:23 PM
ya I remember we did talk about adding members half way through, and since we're entering the fall I can def bring up that convo again
I vouched for you hard in the first apps, but im sure once everyone is on board with adding a new member I can easily convince them cuz of your growth

DelilahDied 10/09/2023 5:24 PM
thank you so much man it means the world <33

spoke 10/09/2023 5:25 PM
there's a lot of things changing atm tho, so that process will probably begin sometime in November or even late October

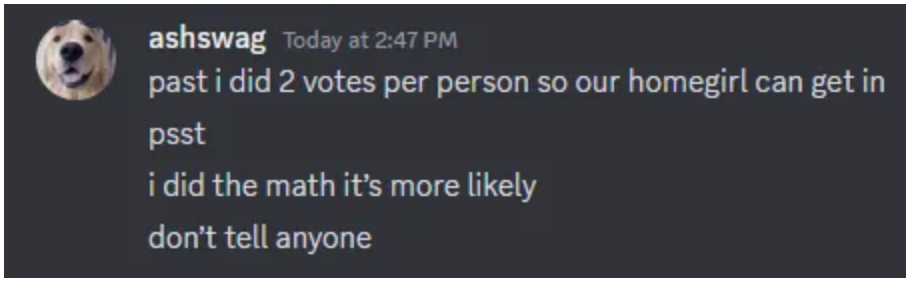
DelilahDied 10/09/2023 5:26 PM
ok yah no rush. just want to put my hat in the ring :)
thank you so much!

spoke 10/09/2023 5:26 PM
Gotchu

As you can tell from this message, Spoke was incredibly supportive of me joining. And obviously, Zam and I were dating so he wanted me on the server (possibly even more than I wanted to get in), and Ashswag was also very much on my side. Ash specifically tried to do the voting in a way that guaranteed me the best chance of getting in. He sent Zam this message:

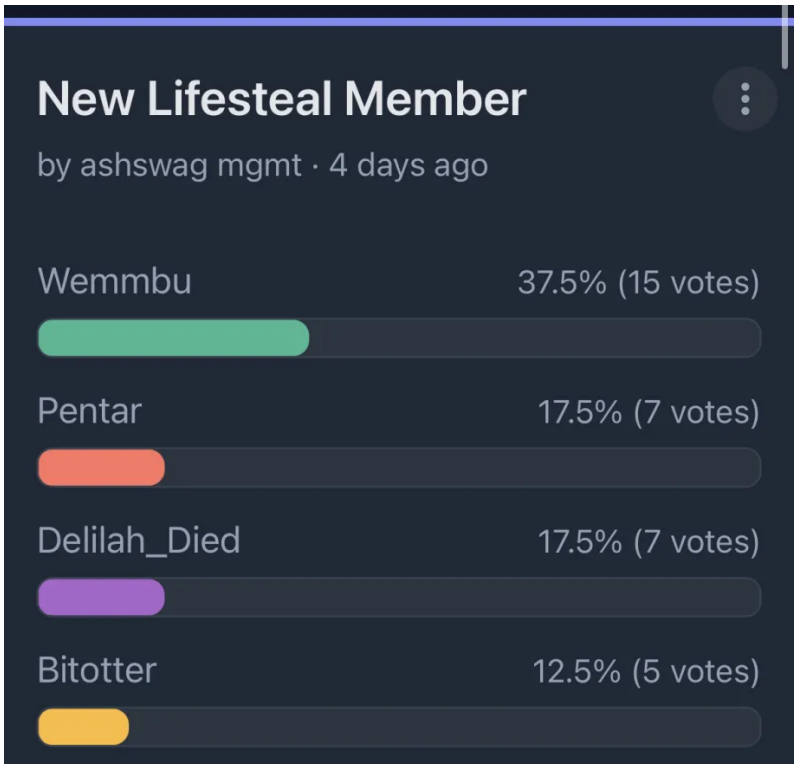
---

[27] I don't have the screenshot of this since Zam deleted it from our dms
[28] Parrot stepped down as owner literally a couple of hours before I sent this message. Like, talk about bad timing.



[29]

And Ash sent the vote statistics to Zam [30] things were looking promising:



So how did I go from tying for second place to not being 1 of the 4 people added? Especially when you pair this with 1. Being vouched by the three owners [31] 2. Being a woman (who they are apparently "trying to make an effort to add more of") and 3. (I've spent 20 minutes trying to figure out a way to put this without sounding entitled) I've prioritized content more than most people on the server. Once again I'm not saying this in a malicious way, not everyone has to prioritize content in their life. Sometimes It's not where someone's passion is. I'm saying this to show how I compare. Let's just go down the list:

TheTerrain: hasn't uploaded in 8 months
Pangi: hasn't uploaded in 4 months
Roshambo: hasn't uploaded in 2 months
WoogieX: hasn't uploaded in 3 months
PrinceZam: hasn't uploaded in 2 months
Planetlord: hasn't uploaded in 6 months

[29] In case its not clear, I am "homegirl"
[30] Who then sent them to me without any prompting [31] To the point where they borderline rigged the voting

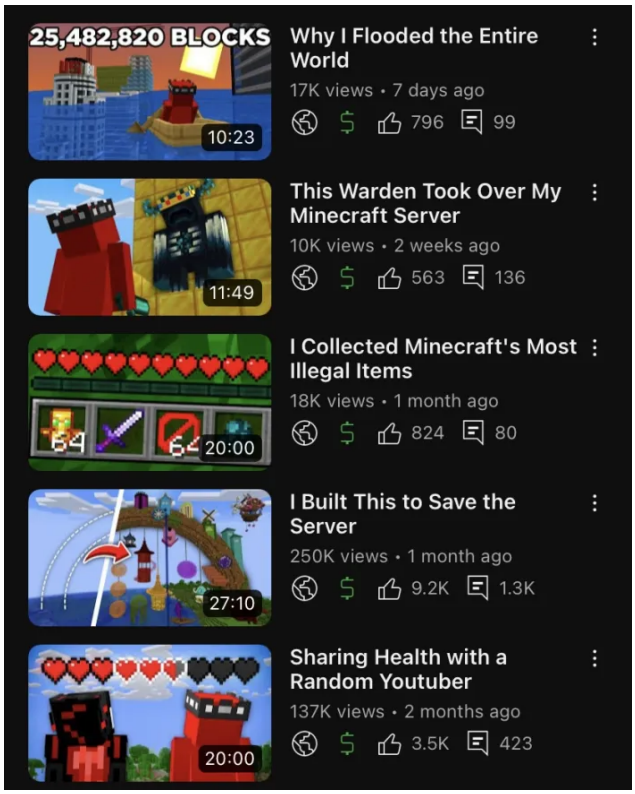
MrCube: hasn't uploaded in 1 month
VortexDragon: hasn't uploaded in 4 months
Spepticle: hasn't uploaded in 8 months

You get the picture. Even a server that is supposed to be at the top is still suffering from inconsistent uploads and a lack of motivation. Even new adds like 4cvit aren't solving this issue; he hasn't uploaded in 5 months (once again, not saying this to be mean. 4cvit works very meticulously on his videos and they may take 6 months to make but they always end up really really good).

But comparatively, this is what my past month of content has looked like:



Consistency, as well as a video with half a million views. This isn't me bragging (though I will admit to being very proud of my recent achievements), but this is a way of showing two things: one, that I honestly don't need Lifesteal in any way, shape, or form. I've been succeeding perfectly fine on my own without having to rely on "Minecraft's DEADLIEST SMP" for my views. And the second reason is to explain why I was incredibly perplexed when Zam got in a call with me right after the meeting and told me that I didn't get in. That entire day, Zam felt off. He seemed super upset. So I convinced him to get in a call with me. He joined sobbing. He cried and apologized for not being able to get me into Lifesteal. And I told him that it was okay. He asked me if I forgave him. I told him there was nothing to forgive. It was unfair that he was forced into a position where he felt he needed to provide this opportunity for me. But as a couple, it was hard for him to know I wanted to join the server, but not be able to do anything about it. [32]

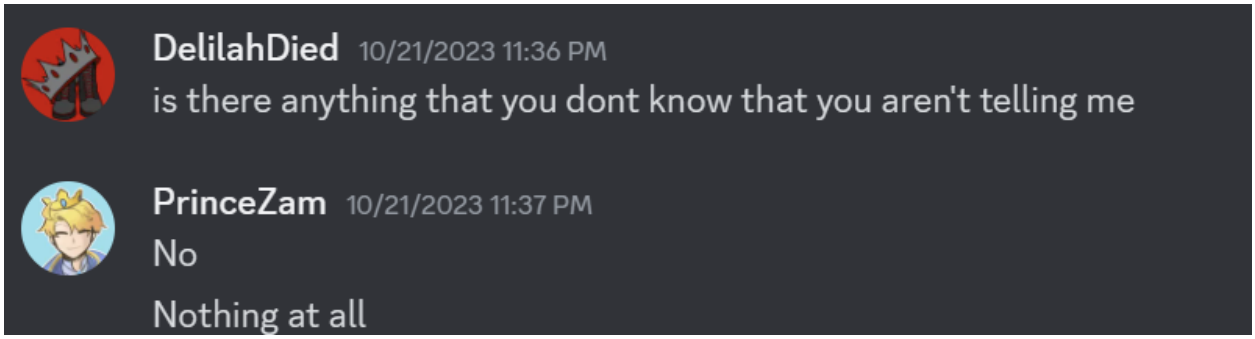
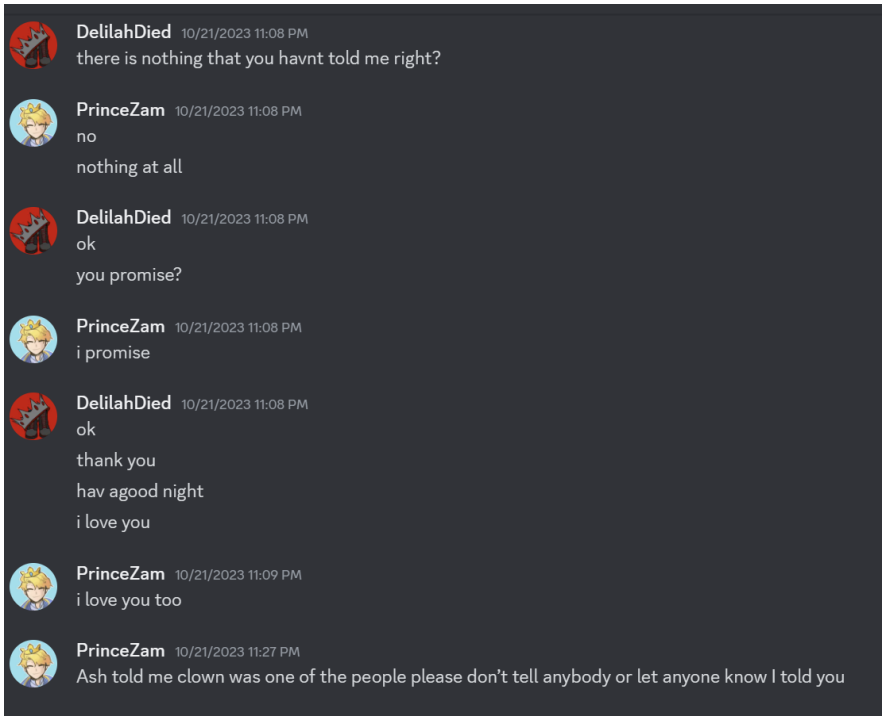
But when I asked him if he knew why I hadn't been added to the server, Zam said that it was because someone had sent an anonymous message to Ashswag saying that they were uncomfortable with me joining the server. Honestly, being rejected from Lifesteal again really sucked. But the idea of someone on the server having an issue with me, an issue big enough to blacklist me from the server that fucking hurt. Especially since the majority of the people on Lifesteal were close friends of mine. Zam told me over and over again that he had no idea who had sent the message.[33] So I went down the list of Lifesteal members wondering who had animosity against me. Zam and I were in calls for 2 hours going through any possible thing I could have said or done to make someone hate me. Zam promised me that he didn't know who it was. I felt like he was hiding something from me though, so I messaged him again later that night:



But later that night he sent me a message saying that it was Clownpierce.

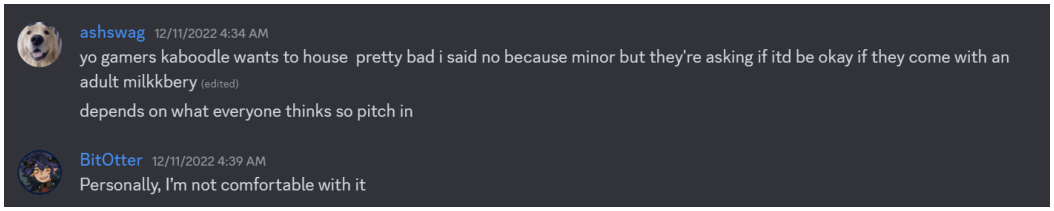
[32] I think this was made especially had for him because during the first round of Season 5 adds back in June, Zam slept through the meeting. He said that part of him wondered if I would have gotten in if he was there. I think that that pressure made him really need to prove something during this round of applicants and not "let me down". But i genuinely never wanted to put that kind of pressure on him.

[33] I want to emphasize this because in Zam's statement, he claims that I forced him into telling me. I didn't even think he knew who it was. Him claiming I forced him to tell me is a blatant lie. He may have felt pressure to tell me the truth, but I believe that's due to having a guilty conscious. Not because I "forced" him.



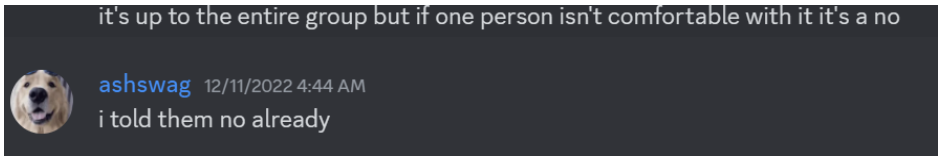
I was devastated. Clownpierce was someone I had confided in and trusted. We had stayed together in Airbnbs at TwitchCon and VidCon. He had stuck by me when I was sad when I was going through the Don situation and the Sols situation. He had comforted me when I was stressed out that Kaboodle was going to try to use me for my connections and ruin my VidCon in the process. And Kaboodle had tried to do that.

A couple of months before VidCon, Kaboodle asked me if she could stay in our airbnb. As previously stated, I wasn't super comfortable with her, so I turned her down. Furthermore, I know Kaboodle and RoseJewel had some former beef. Plus our Airbnb was already full. And on top of that, we had a strict "no minors" rule. This rule had gotten us to turn down people like Derapchu and Coinmonke from staying with us. And Derapchu and Coinmonke were actually friends with us, close with everyone in the house. Whereas barely anyone in the house knew Kaboodle. So overall, Kaboodle got a firm "no" from me.[34] However, she decided to go ask every single member of the house to see if she could stay with us. The list of people she asks includes rosejewel, ashswag, bitotter, pangi, princezam, clownpierce, bormethius, and derapchu (who wasn't even part of the house btw). Shortly after I told her no, Ashswag sent this message in our Airbnb group chat:

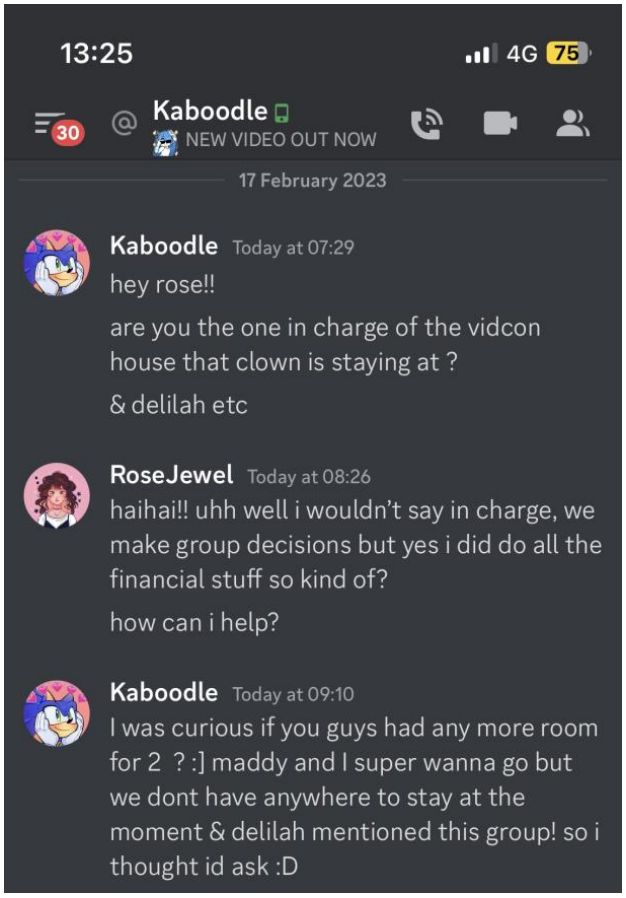


[34] This happened in a vc, so I dont have any proof of this. But I think you'll find that proving that this is in character for her is pretty easy

As you can see, immediately people had some concerns, and once again kaboodle was given a firm no as confirmed by Ashswag:



However, Kaboodle tried again, messaging RoseJewel this time:



Now once again, this made Kaboodle look incredibly manipulative, since she told RoseJewel “delilah mentioned this group” which is true. I mentioned that this group was full. But Kaboodle left out that detail. This is the entire conversation between Rose and I:

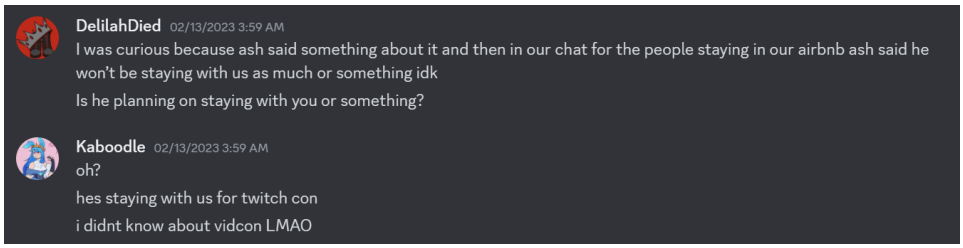
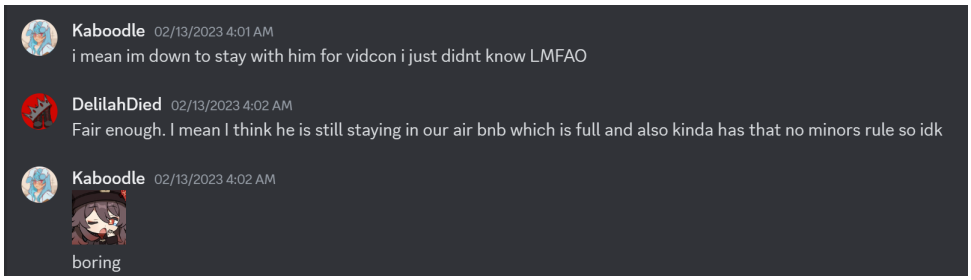
As stated in the last part of that message, this was not the first time that Kaboodle manipulated my words. In the same conversation where I told her that she couldn't stay in our Airbnb, we also had a conversation about Ashswag.

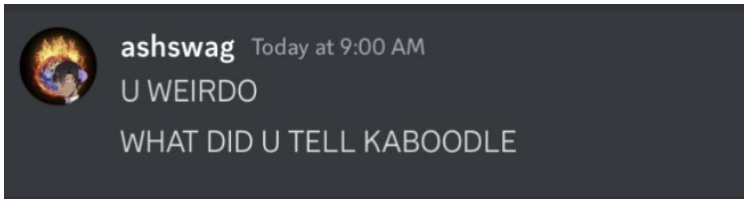


I just asked her if Ashswag was planning on staying with her for VidCon because she made some suggestive comments about it in a VC. This conversation ended with this:



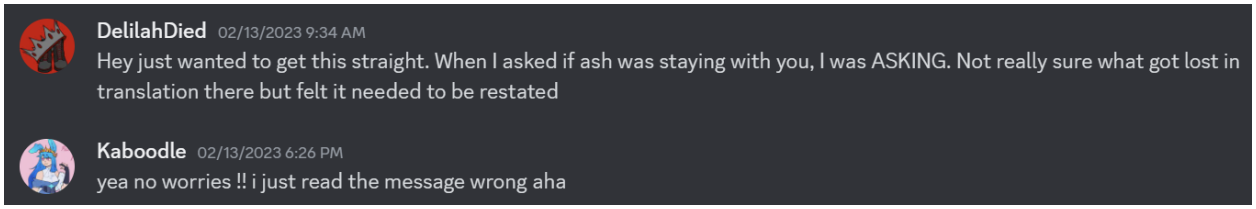
As you can see, I made it very clear that Ashswag was staying in our Airbnb. In no way did I insinuate that he wanted to stay with Kaboodle.

The next morning I received this message from Ashswag:



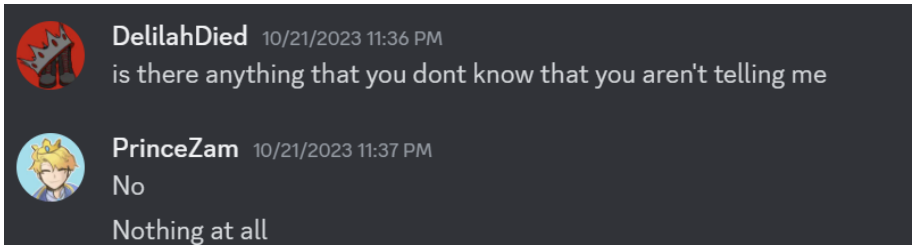
A few minutes later I received this:

Once again, Kaboodle was twisting and manipulating my words to try to get what she wanted. Fool me once, shame on you, fool me twice… now you are just evil and manipulative. She had twisted my words with RoseJewel, and now with Ashswag. At some point, she loses the benefit of the doubt. The first time it happened I thought maybe it was just a miscommunication. The second time, it felt incredibly intentional. I messaged her about this:



To the best of my knowledge, Clownpierce knew about all of this. So it was shocking to find out that he was the one who was “uncomfortable” with me joining Lifesteal. (flash forward to October 23rd). So I got in a call with him to understand more. Basically, he heard a rumor about me. It involved the Sols situation. The rumor was that I was claiming he was involved with the “unsolicited photos” part of the Sols situation. And once again, rather than anyone confronting me about these rumors, he decided to let those thoughts feaster and take away an opportunity from me. It was super disappointing.

On top of this, Zam and I got into a call where he admitted that he had always known that the person was clownpeirce. Basically, this message was a complete lie:



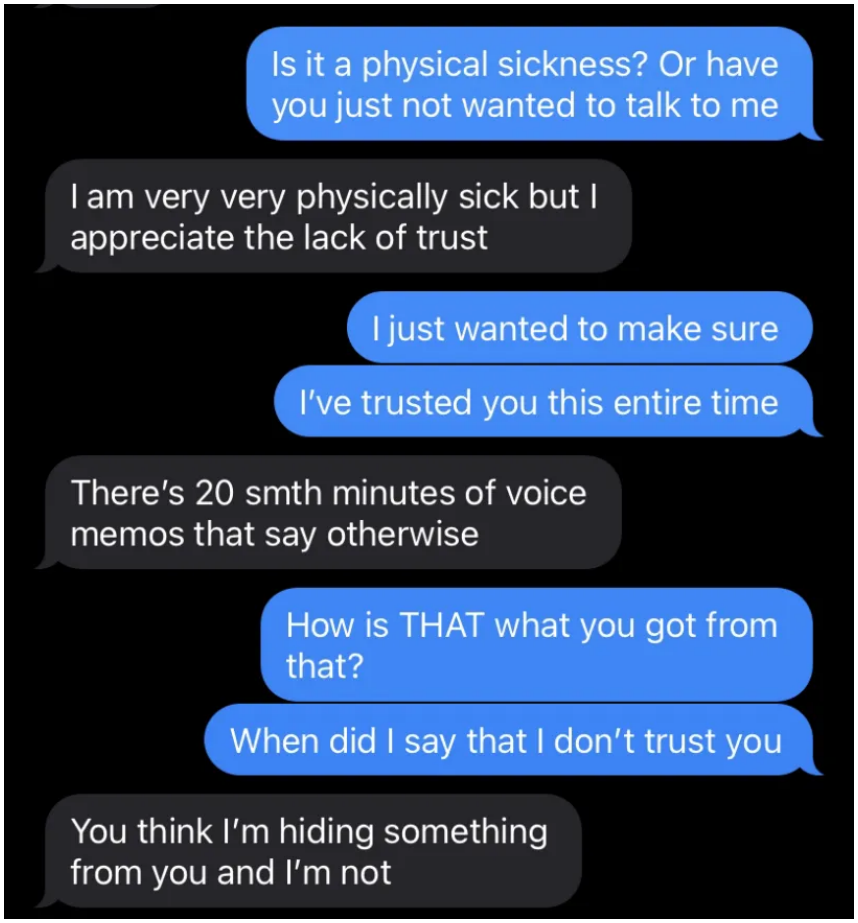
After he had promised to never lie to me again, more of his lies kept coming and piling up. Everything that had happened over the last couple of days was overwhelming me. Sols, Kaboodle, Clownpierce, and now PrinceZam. All betraying me, and manipulating me, and hiding things from me, and lying to me one after the other. That night, I tried to kill myself.

I won't go into the details, but remember counting down all of my reasons. Don, Sols, Kaboodle, Mark, Clown, Zam. The list stated to drone on and on and on. I remembered thinking back to the novel Thirteen Reasons Why and feeling like this is how it felt for small actions to leave a big impact. For 13 small things to build up until you can't even breath anymore. Eventually, I messaged Zam, saying I wasn't strong enough. He got in a call with me and we just sat together crying. I told him that I didn't know how to trust him anymore. Eventually, I took my bipolar medication which put me to sleep.[35] But eventually, I went to sleep and woke up the next morning.

I wanted to tread carefully with Zam. I wasn't sure what he was feeling or what he needed. I tried to give him space. But a couple of days after that incident, he was sending me dms showcasing his affection:

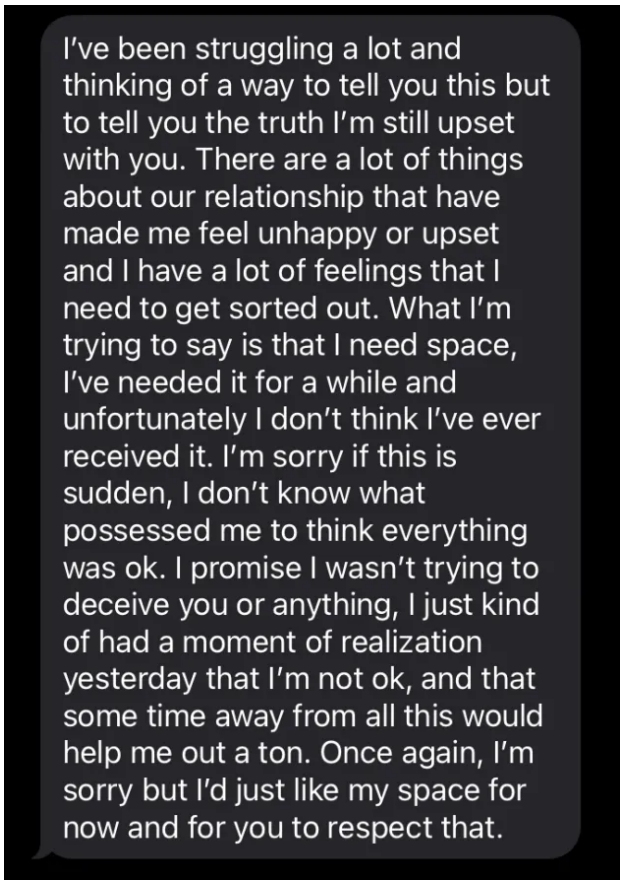
[35] I took a lot more of it than I should have taken. I tried to OD.

I tried to end my own life on October 22nd. This message is from October 26th. He was calling me his “finance”.[36] He was talking about me sexually. However, I felt like things were off. I asked him if he was okay, and he said he was fine. But I didn’t believe him. I thought that once again, he was hiding something from me. I asked him over and over again if something was wrong and if he was hiding something and he kept saying no. Even to the point where he got mad at me.



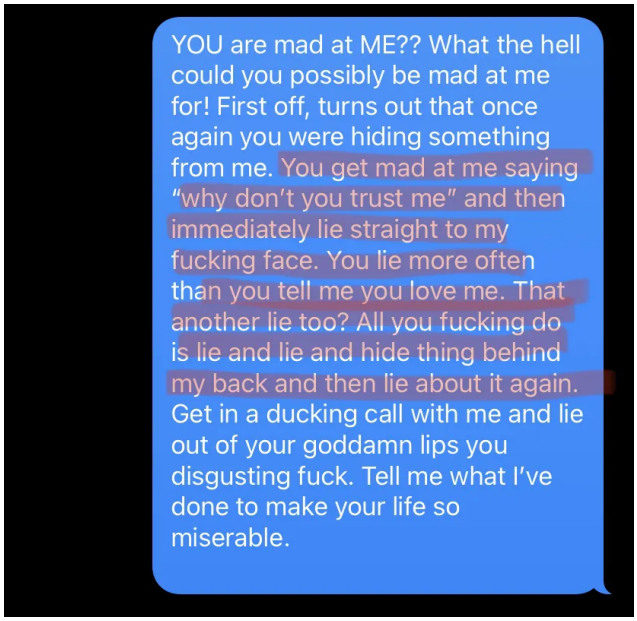
But it turns out that he was lying. A few days later Zam sent me this message:

[36] This actually stems from his parents pressuring him to marry me. Something that I wasn’t ready for yet, I mean we are both 19. But I did enjoy when he called me his “finance” because it sounded like a promise.



If there is one thing I regret in this entire situation, it's not giving him that space. Instead, I lashed out, angry that he had lied yet again. I had asked if he was okay and if he was hiding anything from me. I gave him every single chance to tell me the truth for once in our entire relationship. But instead, he came from out of the blue and dropped this on me out of nowhere.

This was my reply:



Clearly, I was super done with his lies.

I've recently gotten back into my Billie Elish phase, and one of her songs My Boy has some lyrics that resonate hard with me

"My boy, my boy, my boy,
Don't love me like he promised,
My boy, my boy, my boy,
He ain't a man, and he sure as hell ain't honest" [37]

The next day I got sent a 1613 word long message that I will refer to as Message 1 basically saying how much Zam hated me. This starts with him "changing his mind" about hiding the message Ashswag sent him about Kaboodle. (this message):

Kaboodle 10/13/2023 6:38 AM have fun vroom vrooming
so it's about Sols, I assume you know the same amount of information as I did, as in that he was a sexual abuser and delilah told us that, and you also told me to leave money SMP for that reason. Now I did not expect to ever speak to him again, after that, because being a sexual abuser as a horrible thing obviously. However, in the last two days tox told me that Delilah actually made it up to ruin his reputation, normally, I would think that he just said that to try and get her to be friends with him because i love tox but she gets very easily convinced and manipulated by mean people, however, because of the events that have happened over the last few months between Delilah and a lot of people it wouldn't be out of character for her to lie to try and ruin someone's reputation, i added sols back on discord to try and get his pov of the situation and it does seem like Delilah made it up however I don't know him and I know nothing about the situation. He just empathise with what had happened to me and other people Delilah has done this to & talked a lot of shit about delilah, which if she actually did make this entire thing up, makes a lot of sense, but I don't really know who to believe, because I was never really friends with Sols and I would rather not accidentally talk to someone who did actually sexually abuse someone but I also don't want to believe the person that has been known for making up drama and rumours including about me and I want your opinion on this entire situation. (edited)
i dont know whether i trust him or not, and i wanna know if you do ashswag 10/13/2023 7:26 AM i have not talked to him in a year he just dmd me rn, what did he tell you that got you to question things?

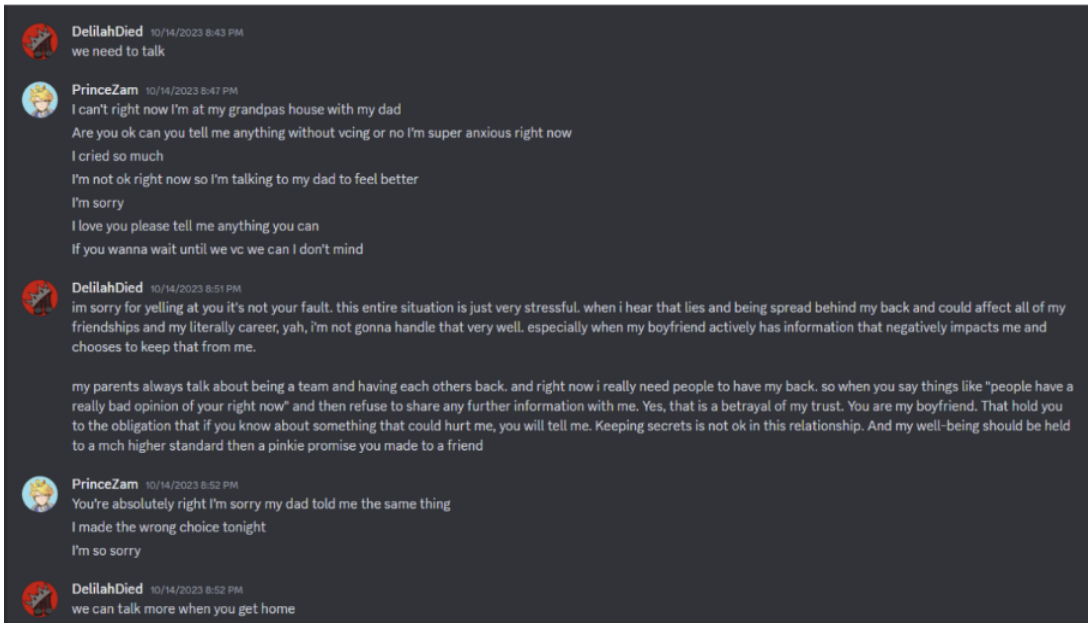
At the time Zam was super apologetic about this situation (this is just a recap cause this document is long, notice the date):



DelilahDied 10/14/2023 8:43 PM
we need to talk

PrinceZam 10/14/2023 8:47 PM
I can't right now I'm at my grandpas house with my dad
Are you ok can you tell me anything without vcing or no I'm super anxious right now
I cried so much
I'm not ok right now so I'm talking to my dad to feel better
I'm sorry
I love you please tell me anything you can
If you wanna wait until we vc we can I don't mind

DelilahDied 10/14/2023 8:51 PM
im sorry for yelling at you it's not your fault. this entire situation is just very stressful. when i hear that lies and being spread behind my back and could affect all of my friendships and my literally career, yah, i'm not gonna handle that very well. especially when my boyfriend actively has information that negatively impacts me and chooses to keep that from me.

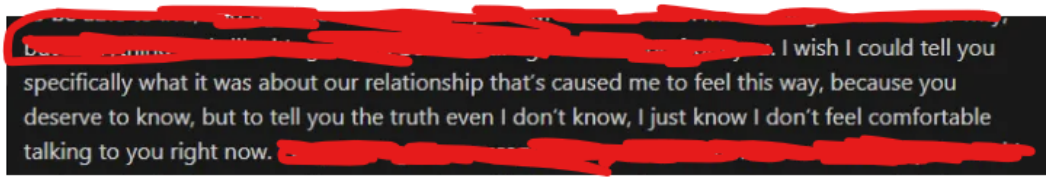
my parents always talk about being a team and having each others back. and right now i really need people to have my back. so when you say things like "people have a really bad opinion of your right now" and then refuse to share any further information with me. Yes, that is a betrayal of my trust. You are my boyfriend. That hold you to the obligation that if you know about something that could hurt me, you will tell me. Keeping secrets is not ok in this relationship. And my well-being should be held to a mch higher standard then a pinkie promise you made to a friend

PrinceZam 10/14/2023 8:52 PM
You're absolutely right I'm sorry my dad told me the same thing
I made the wrong choice tonight
I'm so sorry

DelilahDied 10/14/2023 8:52 PM
we can talk more when you get home

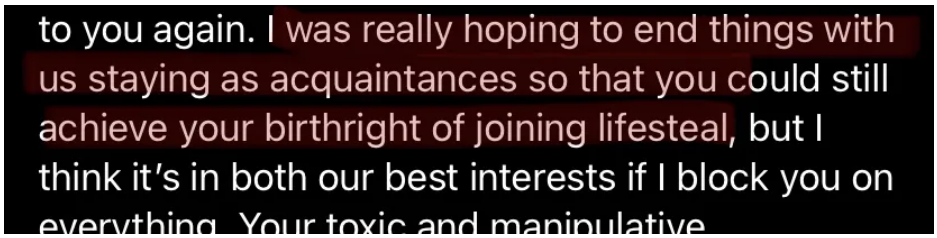
[37] Another lyric that really applies is "my boy loves his friends like I love my split ends, and by that I mean he cuts them off" because Zam genuinely had a lot of animosity towards the majority of the Genesis SMP, which I find a lot of irony in since most of them ended up taking his side in this situation. I think this is funny because he had every intention off cutting them out of him life. These people included Derapchu, vPluto, and Mark Bormethius.

But suddenly he decided that everything bad in his life was my fault. Hearing this really hurt me, especially considering this came out of nowhere for no apparent reason. Even in a more recent message I got from Zam (sent from him on November 17th), I asked him what I did to deserve him sending me so much hate, and he said this:



Which seems ridiculous to me that Zam felt the need to send me hate, block me on every platform, and then kick me from the Genesis SMP [38] without a clear reason why. Now in Message 1, Zam was incredibly hostile.

But why did any of this have to be brought to the public in the first place? Well, that's because in Message 1, Zam began threatening my career as a content creator, saying that he would ensure that I never joined an SMP or event with him every again. The entire time he sounded incredibly bitter:



The way he said "your birthright of joining Lifesteal" is a perfect illustration of the animosity he felt towards me. And as demonstrated in the image prior, he didn't even know what caused this animosity. But despite that, he was determined to make sure that the content space was dangerous for me. [39]

Zam saying that he would make sure I didn't join events or servers with him proved not to be empty promises either. But actions speak louder than words. And Zam was determined to make sure I lost friends, my content space, etc. This started with the Genesis SMP, a server that I helped to build. Initially, the people who built the server were Zam, BitBotter, and me. Later, Derpachu came into the picture and was given a spot as one of four owners. But Zam quickly got annoyed with him because Derpachu kept complaining and pestering Zam. When Zam heard that Kaboodle had called Derachu her "little spy inside of Gen"[40] he was planning to remove Derapchu as an owner and disassociate with him as much as he could. There is a great irony in that because, after my and Zam's falling out, Zam decided to go to Derapchu, make him

---

[38] Something we will get into later.

[39] Genuinely, after he sent that message, I went and deleted my address for my dms with him. I was genuinely worried that he was going to SWAT me because of the hatred in his words. To this day, I'm still incredibly worried. I even went down to the police station today (November 25th) and told them that I'm worried about being SWATed or doxed.

[40] I just realized that I left this explanation out. Basically, Derapchu had told Kaboodle that she was blacklisted from Genesis. This isn't entirely true, but many of us did see her as a clout chaser and didn't want her on the server. "Blacklisted" isn't the word I would use though. However, it was super frustrating that Derapchu was leaking sensitive Genesis information to Kaboodle. I found out that he was doing this when Kaboodle called him her "little spy" in a vc with me.

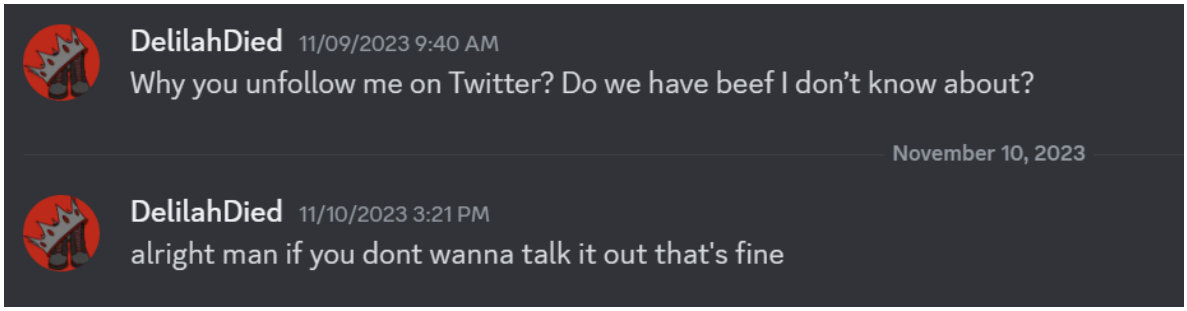
the “main” owner of the server, and tell him that the reason he was leaving Genesis was because of me. Now, Derpachu is known to be fairly immature. BitOtter was an original owner and is very mature. She should have been the right choice to run the Genesis SMP. However, Zam knew that BitOtter and I were close, and based on that fact alone, Zam gave ownership to Derapchu.

Derapchu and I were already planning to vc about him sharing sensitive Genesis information with Kaboodle, however, in this call, Derapchu began to accuse me of things while using half information.[41] He hadn’t been given many details about the situation between me and Zam. But Derapchu said that he was removing me as one of three owners because I was the reason Zam had left. However, Zam left of his own volition. Zam knew that if he just kicked me out of the server, he would look like a bad person who was indeed trying to remove me from any server he was on. But by getting Derapchu to do this, he could act blameless. However, Derapchu claimed that he was planning to essentially bully me off of Genesis.[42] Something that became apparent on the Genesis private discord:

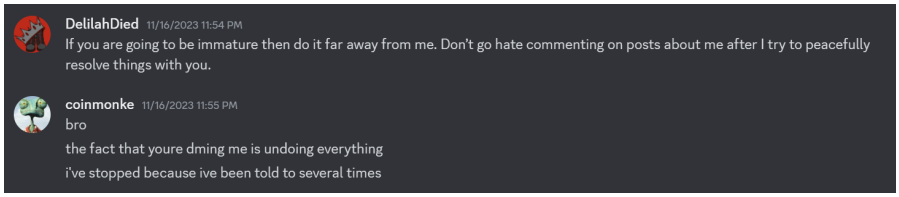
[41] Genuinely, these accusations made me start to cry. I literally begged him to stop, saying that this wound was too fresh and raw for him to be poking at it. But Derapchu continued on as if I hadn’t said anything. He reiterated over and over again that Zam leaving the server was all my fault. After this call ended, I made another suicide attempt. This was attempt number 4.

[42] This was done in vc so I don’t have any screenshots, and Dearpchu and I both shared screens for the entire conversation to ensure neither of us recorded the conversation. Which is unfortunate, because what he said in that conversation was so messed up.

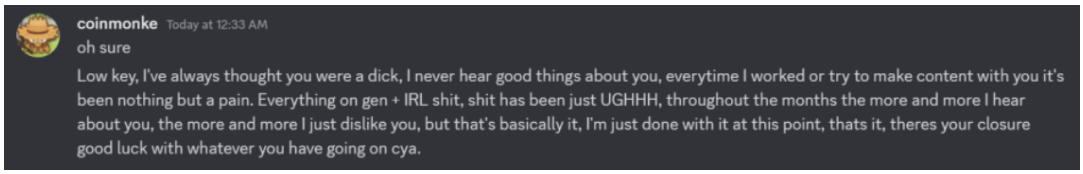
To contextualize this situation, I was making a thumbnail for my next video, which is all about Big Chicken, who was spawned in months ago by Zam using creative mode and admin commands. I had a download of the Genesis world, which I used to get the big chicken to make my thumbnail. But after putting these screenshots in the gen discord, I immediately got accusations of cheating. Now keep in mind that as a fellow owner, Derapchu knew that I did not have access to the server console, nor was I made an operator on the server. These are both things that Derapchu knew full well, yet once again, no one bothered to ask me about it. They instead decided to throw around accusations. This might not fully be what Derapchu was talking about when he said that he was gonna make me leave Genesis of my own volition by "bullying me off of the server" but it definitely felt like bullying at the time. Derapchu also claimed that while he personally didn't have a problem with me, apparently a bunch of other people on the server hated me. Two names he dropped included Coinmonke and vPluto. The first made a lot of sense, he had unfollowed me on Twitter and ghosted me when I reached out to him about it.



After I heard from Derapchu that Coinmonke had an unresolved issue with me but refused to talk to me about it, I decided to unfriend him on Discord. However, Coinmonke wasn't finished with me. On November 11th, He found a tweet that was appreciating me and Coinmonke replied mocking me. He deleted his reply to that tweet, so I don't have the screenshot to share with you. But I do have proof that his happened in the way of his admitting to it when I reached over to him a couple of days later (November 16th):



He says that other people told him to stop making posts mocking me. I asked him what I had done to cause beef with him to begin with This was his response:



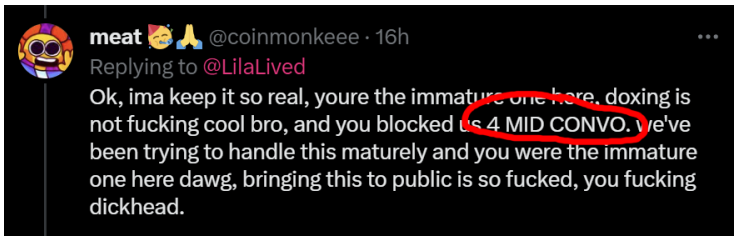
[43]

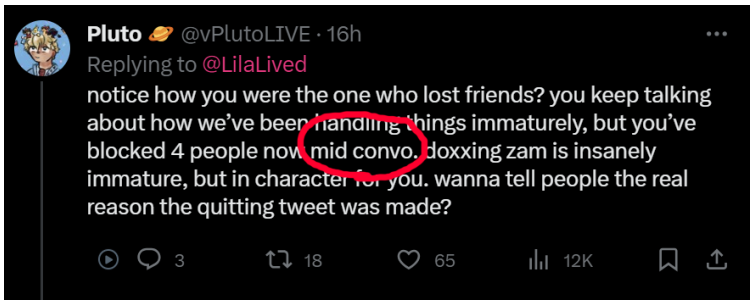
[43] I would like to add that before this he messaged me saying that he would rather not tell me because he was busy playing fortnite. Then he said "my bad". He quickly deleted both of these messages, but I think this helps highlight just how immature Coinmonke is. He's like 15 so I don't blame him, but its still super frustrating.

Coinmonke had to rhyme or reason for hating me. He just kinda… did? Overall I think you can see how incredibly flimsy Coinmonke's argument is. It was clear I didn't do anything to him.[44] The only reason for his actions was because he was choosing Zam over me. Based on no evidence. He just chose Zam. I'm not sure if this is because he heard some negative rumour about me, maybe he's clout chasing Zam, or maybe its because he's known Zam longer. Unclear.

Now I had made an alt tweet about Zam (this one):

And a bunch of people including Coinmonke responded saying that he was 1 of 4 people who I blocked mid-conversation:

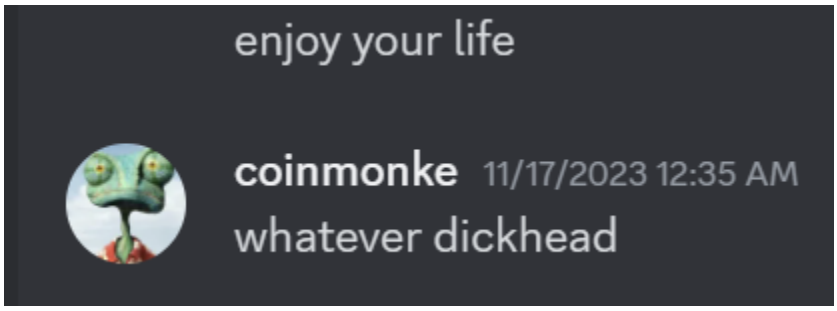




Mark was the first person who I blocked. I blocked Mark after he refused to respond to me in any capacity:

[44] Part of it might stem back to people's frustrating over the god arc that happened on the Genesis SMP but that's just speculation based on Coin saying that making content with me was "nothing but pain".

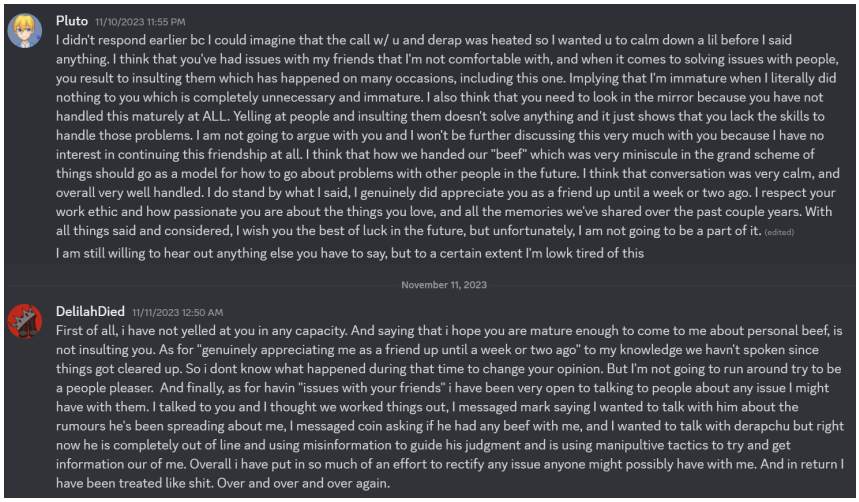
As you can see in the dates of this message, I waited an entire week for a response. When I didn't receive one, I decided that this was clearly not someone I wanted in my life, and blocked him.[45] As you can tell from coin's message, he was quite finished calling me a "dickhead" and saying everything about me was "ughhhh". His final message to me was:

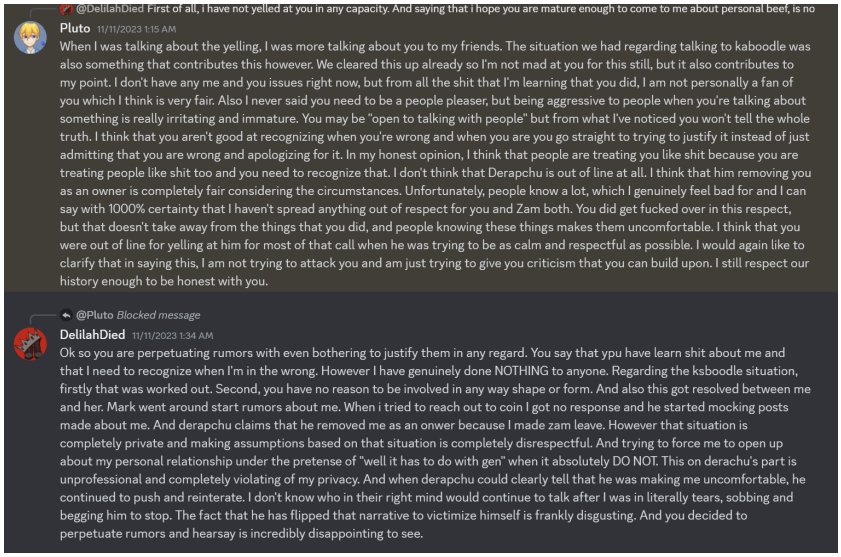


Saying that I blocked him "mid-conversation" is a way for these people to try and claim that a private, healthy conversation was being had, while in fact, it was not. In reality, I was being name-called and belittled and given no reason as to why. And on top of that, there was no conversation being had with Mark, and the conversation was done with CoinMonke.

I also messaged Pluto, and it was clear that despite the fact that I had done nothing to Pluto, he was also choosing Zam:

[45] On top of that, him sharing my personal information also made me want to block him, but I had given him an entire week because of the fact that he was once as close to me as a brother.





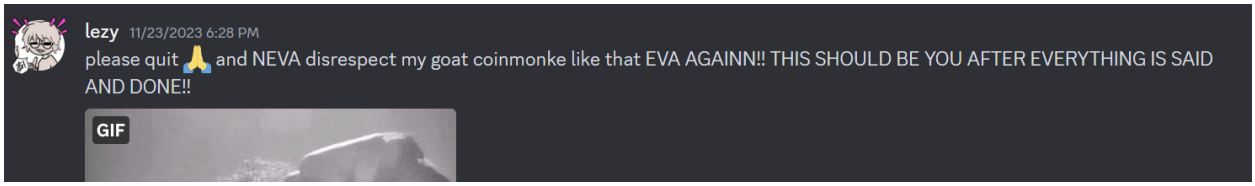
Once again, his only reasoning was that Derapchu said that I yelled at him. Now “yelling” isn’t the word I would use; it was more like sobbing. I begged Derapchu to not make assumptions based on half information. To not take action in a situation that did not involve him in the slightest. [46] Derapchu threatened me to either tell him what happened with Zam, or he would bully me out of Genesis. As a server owner – as a creator in general – it's important to be able to separate the personal and the professional. And Derapchu using his leverage as server owner to make me talk about my romantic relationship, is incredibly unprofessional, and shows me that he is not someone I want as a friend. [47]

Speaking of unprofessionalism, Coinmonke also began releasing his friends on me, telling them to send hate to me:

---

[46] Can we talk about that for a second? Because everyone seems to want to be involved with my and zam’s relationship and I don’t understand why. I wish I had never been in that relationship, why do you want to be apart of it?

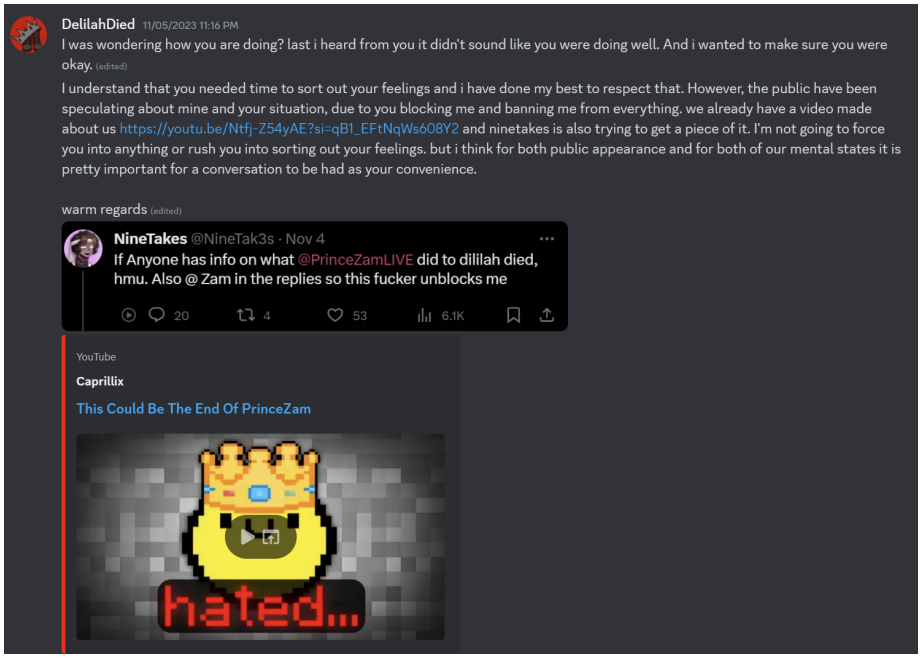
[47] I am also told (and this is just hersay) that Derapchu used equally manipulative tactics on Zam to get him to open up about the situation. It doesn’t excuse the fact that Zam bad-mouthed me. But it does fit with the nature of Dearpchu’s character.



Over the next little while, I reached out to Zam, saying that a conversation needed to be had. I emphasised this time and time and time again that I wanted this to be handled privately, but he was going around calling me a bad person to Derapchu as well as to people who he stayed with on a trip to New York.

I sent him a message asking for us to communicate and resolve any conflict. This message mostly stemmed from concern for his well-being. People were beginning to make videos and tweet about out situation:

I told Zam that it was important for us to discuss how to address each other publicly. Maybe re-friend each other on Discord and refollow on Twitter until we had both cooled down enough to discuss it more. This was that full message:



To which Zam replied that due to his declining mental state, he was not willing to resolve anything.[48] In this message he gave me a reason to suspect he was going to harm himself, saying that he was “begging for escape” which are the exact words I said to him the night I planned to take my own life (October 22nd). He used this phrase intentionally to try and avoid a conversation and make me worried about him. However, literally days after claiming to be “begging for escape”, he posted this image:

Which, I’d argue, doesn’t look like someone who is mentally unwell in any capacity. I sent him another message about this situation, asking that I receive an apology and that once again, a conversation had to be had. Zam expected to send me a bunch of hate for no reason (see Message 1 as proof) and then have me just leave him alone as he went around spreading

[48] Unfortunately I left the group chat in which this message was in, so I dont have the screenshot hate to me for no reason. I want to emphasize that the message where Zam said he didn't know what I had done to initiate any of this, was one of his most recent messages to me.

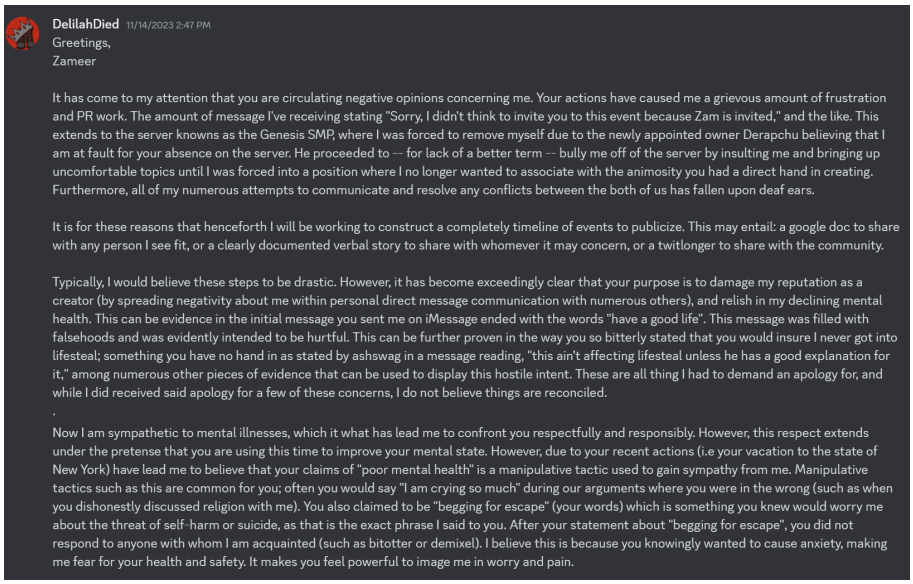
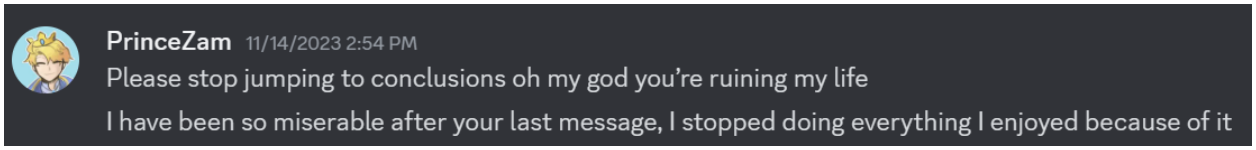
Sent on November 17th.

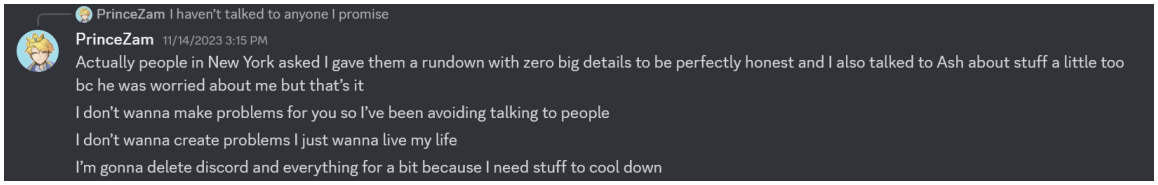
This was the followup message I sent Zam:



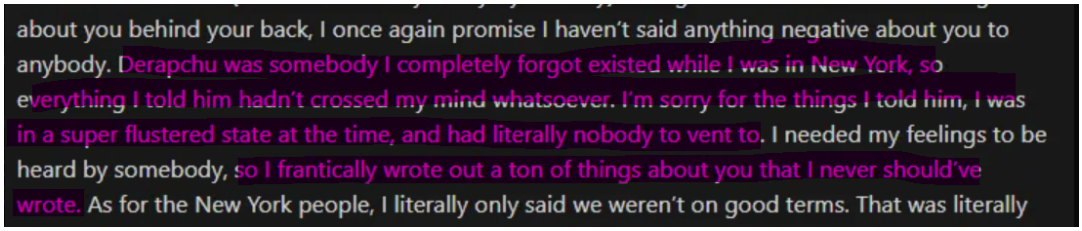
Rather than responding responsibly, I received 40+ dms, which included:



I wasn't jumping to conclusions, I said: "[this is what I'm being told, and what's happening. I want to hear you're side and come to a conclusion]".



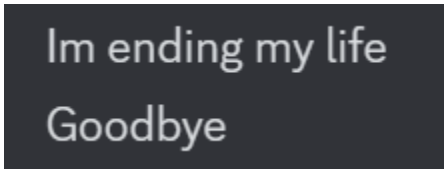
Once again, this is a lie considering he told Derapchu, something he admits later:



Once again, this is another excerpt from the message Zam sent me on November 17th.

In the end, I read this, and despite the repetitive empty apologies, it was clear from this message that he had no interest in making amends. I tried to solve this privately over and over and over again. And still, Zam wanted to force everyone into a choice of either me or him. This was proven once again when on November 24th, Zam sent a message in Lifesteal pirate discord commanding them to disassociate with me on Twitter. I received discord dms saying that it wasn't personal, but Zam forced them into a choice between him or me. And like sheep, 16/28 did exactly what he wanted without having an agency of their own.[49] Honestly, it's very disappointing.

The fact that someone I had once loved so dearly, could go around and hurt me so much, caused me to feel like there was no one left in my life that I could trust. After Zam made his hatred so clear, I send him one last message:

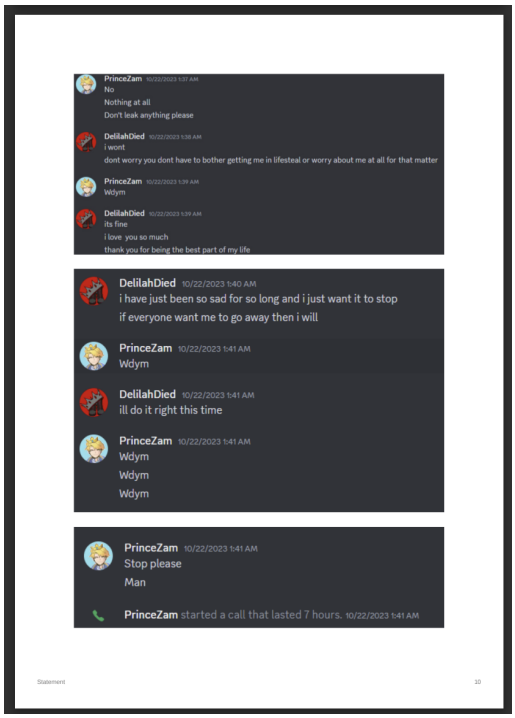


I was in Florida at the time, so I didn't make an attempt. And luckily I had people who were actually genuine friends in my life who messaged my parents. My parents came and and sat with me while I sobbed, saying how much I wanted to leave this world and never come back. Because I was hurting so so bad. My dad even reached out to Zam after I gave him the full rundown. I don't entirely know what my dad said, but the fact that the situation was bad enough to involve my parents should show how much hurt Zam had caused me.

[49] Genuinely, this hurt because a lot of these people I considered close friends. I had stuck by people like Mid when a lot of drama was going down around her. I had been friends with Bacon for over a year and he had supported me so much, I had literally gone down and stayed over at Spoke's house. So for those friendships to be gone because they had been tolf to do so, hurt.

Recently, Zam released his own statement, and used my suicide attempts as “evidence” of manipulation. However, the majority of his screenshots have no affiliation with any type of story.

This entire page only servers the purpose of showing that I wanted to end my own life on October 22nd:

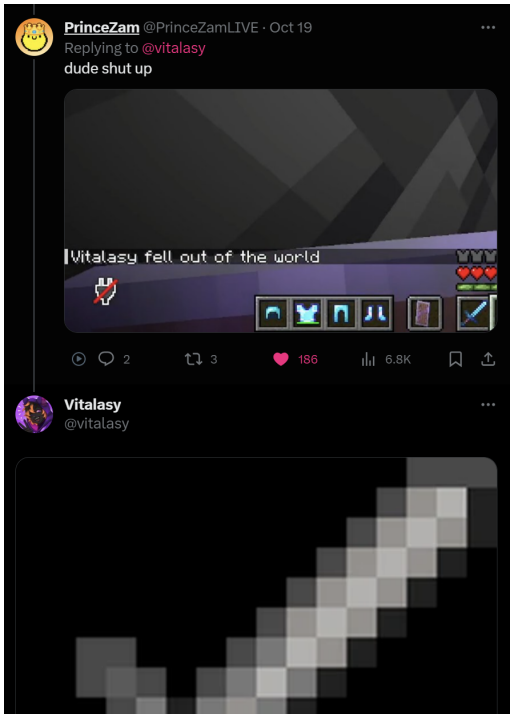


[50]

He went through all past dms and picked all of the bits of information he could to make me look bad, or reveal things about my personal life. But my “threat” of suicide wasn’t empty. I tried to kill myself that night. That’s not information I ever wanted to share, but Zam is claiming that I used suicide as a manipulation tactic, which alone makes him the worst kind of person.

There are plenty of things that I could bring up that are completely unrelated to this situation that make Zam look really bad. He talked to me often about how much he HATED Vitalasy, calling him really awful things, yelling in VC over tweets like this one:

[50] Thank you for sharing that btw.



Or I could go into the time that Zam said a slur. But none of that is related to the situation at hand.

However, Zam did exactly that; he went through dms from months ago and decontextualized them in an attempt to make me look bad. [51] Because at the end of the day, he knows that he has no reason for his animosity against me. He knows that despite my attempts to settle this privately, he never made an effort to come to a compromise. And while I've admitted to my own wrongdoings in the situation, they have all come as a consequence of Zam's actions.

I want to further address some of the baseless claims Zam made in his "statement" such as:

> more. She'd make statements along the lines of "If so and so can tell me so much about Lifesteal, then why can't you? You're much closer to me?" This led me to break my professional and personal boundaries by telling her more than I ever should have.

I never once said anything remotely like this. Zam would very freely give me information of his own volition. For example, after I didn't get into Lifesteal, Zam joined the call with me sobbing. He admitted everything to me without me having to say a single word. He leaked the screenshot of the Lifesteal vote results without any prompting: [51] He sent a message of me saying that I hate someone and call that person a "worthless piece of shit" based on this document (considering it's a woman) I'm sure you can figure out who it is, and maybe why I said that. But that screenshot had no evidence points behind it, just a screenshot of me hating someone without any explanation. Hopefully now you can see how his "statement" was manipulative and misleading. I don't blame people for blocking on unfollowing (though I do blame you for sending hate, grow up). But hopfully now you have a clearer picture and some more context.

---

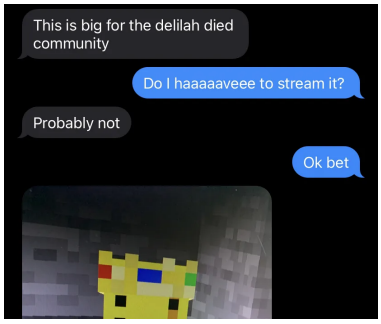
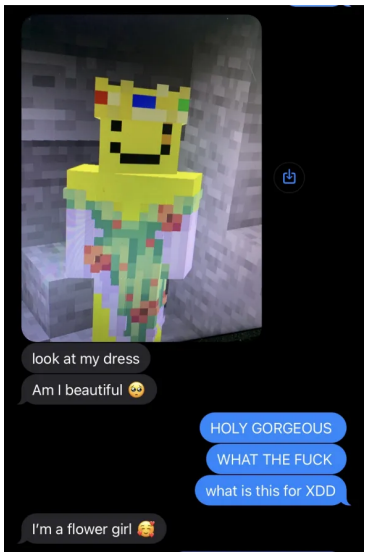
He would send me plenty of photos about upcoming things on Lifesteal without me ever asking him to do so: (for context we were talking about Tubnet when out of no where Zam reveals the wedding event on lifesteal)

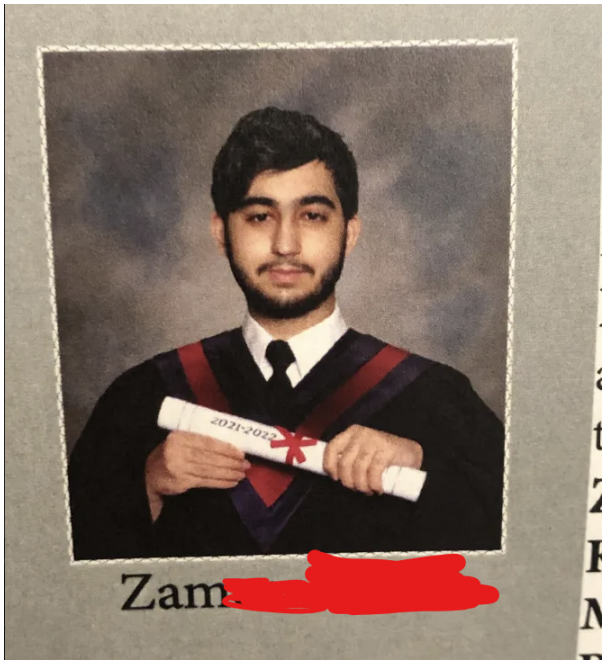




And finally, the claim that I “doxed” Zam by revealing his full name. First of all, the term “doxing” refers to revealing information about a person which could identify them. Adding three letters is hardly “identifiable information” considering that according to forbes is a very popular name:

On top of that, while I’m sure my tweet made his name more publicly well known, it wasn’t the first time it was revealed. First off, IRLs of his have come forward revealing Zam asa certified slur slinger and bad person (I can somewhat back up these claims, based on information that Zam told me while we were dating, saying that he used to be a bit of a bully):

As well as a yearbook picture that was leaked revealing both Zam’s first name and last name:



This image was showcased in multiple YouTube videos. And finally, Zam's old video actively features his friends using his full name. To the best of my knowledge, these videos have been unlisted but not privated, meaning that anyone with the right tools can still watch these videos. Overall, this is once again another example of Zam blowing things out of proportion to support his narrative.

I will concede, that I should not have used this name, as this made it more well-known to more people. I should have been the bigger person and not brought myself down to his level. For that, I apologize. That tweet was written in anger, and I let those emotions overrule my judgment. I am sorry.

• • •

From the beginning, I didn't want to go head-to-head against Zam. I knew that there were those who would support Zam, regardless of the truth. A combination of clout chasing among other reasons. But I was forced to bring this to public attention after Zam began besmirching my name. This space became increasingly dangerous for me. And I hope that throughout this document you have seen my side of the situation.

Regarding the Zam situation, let me summarize for those of you who don't feel like reading (though I truly recommend learning about the type of people you have been supporting): out of the blue, Zam sent me a message sending me hate and trying to deteriorate my self-worth. In that message, he threatened my career and my friendships. Then, he expected me to sit ideally by and let him bad-mouth me. The result of him spreading this negativity about me resulted in me being bullied, losing multiple friends on Genesis, and eventually leaving the server entirely. After I tried to reach out to him about this, he kept running away, claiming that he didn't even know the reason that he had put me through this. This could have and should have been ended healthily, but instead, he continued to force people to choose either him or me. And then in his statement, he decided to decontextualize screenshots that were completely unrelated to the situation in an attempt to make me look bad.

• • •

I wanted this document to be released once my family returned home from Florida, to make sure I had a safe environment of people who could support me through this. However, due to this decontextualization and manipulation of Zam's statement, I will not be doing that. It's devastating to see my closest friend turn himself into my worst enemy. Once again, please don't send any form of hate to anyone involved. Block anyone you wish to disassociate with.

Beyond that, I'm personally doing a lot better. I've been spending a lot of time going on walks with my dog, reading books, etc. I tried this new thing where instead of giving myself 13 reasons to hate my life, I give myself 13 reasons to keep on living. My family, my friends (the real ones that suck by me), my book (Renegards by Marissa Meyers is AMAZING), my content (I still have so much further to go), and the list goes on. I've also been making sure to live my life in a way that makes me happy, not to please anyone else. I remember how I used to be knocked down by Zam saying that he hated when I wore tight clothing, or when I put my hair up in two braids. So I've been doing that every single day, to make sure I never change for anyone else again

I don't know where I'll be going over the next little while. I think I'm just going to focus on my school and my in-person friends. Maybe I'll work on some YouTube videos. But for now, I'll see you around.

Thank you for reading <3